"It was the best of times,

it was the worst of times,

it was the age of wisdom,

it was the age of foolishness . . ."

It was 1969

at East Detroit high school.

Despite the many curtailments

due to repeated millage failures,

2,739 students started the year determined to make the most of it.

TAKING TIME

Few dances, no baseball, wrestling, or tennis teams, limited classes,

no Washington-New York tour, these were the worst of things.

Exciting games, the return of plays and concerts, Senior Day, "Shenanigans," the passage of the millage proposal, these were the best of times.

Approximately 770 seniors will undoubtedly have many other personal remembrances which will make this year . . . a time to remember.

ACTIVITIES

Taking Time For Enjoyment

HELPING to promote school spirit, activities gave students a time-out from classwork for fun, relaxation, and involvement. Many of the school sponsored events will be the most remembered events of high school days.

Homecoming 1968

Queen Reigns Over Festivities

TONI VITALE KAREN HOOPER NANCY MEYER
DOLLY SIRHAN DAWN TINGWALL ELENA EVONA

CORONATION ceremonies for the 1968 Homecoming Queen Karen Hooper, highlighted the 18th annual Homecoming celebration Oct. 11. The student body's choice for queen was kept secret until half-time when Ed Griffor, Student Council president, opened a sealed envelope and announced the winner.

Procedure for choosing the Homecoming Queen was changed this year. Six senior nominees were the only ones eligible for the title of queen while the six undergraduates, nominated by their fellow classmates, served as members of the Royal Court.

During half-time the East Detroit marching band presented a program entitled, "The Doctor and I." Cheerleaders also provided an entertaining dance rendition of "Up, Up and Away," with balloons.

The festivities got off to a lively start with a pre-game bonfire on Thursday night and came to a happy ending with an after-game victory dance in the school gym, sponsored by the Student Council.

Upperclassmen chosen as Homecoming Queen candidates were: Elena Evona, Karen Hooper, Nancy Meyer, Dolly Sirhan, Dawn Tingwall, and Toni Vitale.

ROYAL Court members representing the undergraduates are: Sue Oren, Diane Oliverio, Lynne Wayne, Linda Pompi, Gayle Warner, and Beverly Miller.

Council Sponsors Successful Ball

SENIORS Sheryl Linenger and her escort, Tom Thompson held the lucky ticket which named them "Cinderella" and "Prince Charming".

FLOWERS, formals, and music turned the Student Commons area into a festive setting for the annual Cinderella Ball.

In traditional fashion a ticket was drawn and the winning couple proclaimed Cinderella and Prince Charming. This year the honors were bestowed upon Sheryl Linenger and Tom Thompson.

Decorations were based on a "roses and ice" theme and the music was provided by the Collegiates.

Attendance at this year's "girl ask boy" dance was double that of previous years, making it one of the most profitable Cinderella Balls in the history of East Detroit high. Approximately $800 was added to the Council fund which annually awards scholarships to worthy seniors. Last year's winners were Pauline Pryjmak and Mark Merritt.

Due to curtailment of activities, made necessary by the failure of several millage proposals, this was one of only two dances scheduled this year.

ENCOURAGING fans at Memorial field, varsity cheerleaders Linda Vesey and Julie Dalak lead cheers for the East Detroit gridders.

EDHS Cheerleaders Create Team Spirit

BOASTING the largest and one of the best cheerleading squads in the state, East Detroit high has the trophy to prove it.

The 14-girl squad attended a state-wide cheerleading camp this summer in Hartland, Mich., sponsored by Michigan State university. The girls brought home four first place ribbons awarded them for their cheers, skits, and routines. The squads were judged on overall quality and from this judging the EDHS squad took the third place trophy.

This year's squad was expanded in an effort to give more girls the opportunity of becoming cheerleaders. Originally some 105 girls turned up at practice, 60 of whom entered the actual tryouts. Judges made a final selection of 14 girls based more on enthusiasm and sparkle than on skills.

In addition to cheering and organizing pep meetings the squad painted banners announcing the games.

TENSE expressions show in the faces of Roberta Williams, Lora Bruder, Nancy Meyer, and Brenda Coldwell at the Grosse Pointe game.

Drama Club Stages Shaw Satire

ATTEMPTING to befriend a lion, played by Jim Seppey, Androcles, a sorcerer, portrayed by Bill Osburn, removes a thorn from his aching paw.

CHRISTIAN persecution by the Romans was the theme of the fall production "Androcles and the Lion" by George Bernard Shaw, presented by the Pit and Balcony Drama club.

The two act comedy-satire directed by Mr. Raymond E. Beard, utilized two sets, one a forest, and the second the entrance to the colosseum in Rome.

Leading roles were portrayed by William Osburn as Androcles, a sometimes sorcerer and Christian, who befriends a lion played by James Seppey; Rhonda Long, the wife of Androcles; Daniel St. Laurent, the emperor; Greg Zurro, a disturbed gladiator; Judy Barich, a Christian of high birth; and Jon Sprecher, a Roman captain.

Eva Schumacher served as student director with Nancy Schaible, stage manager, and Michael Moody, technical director.

Student crews constructed the sets, designed and sewed most of the costumes including the lion's head.

COSTUMES and sets added to the mood of the play. Ken Barrand complains about unfair fighting by John Grimes as Tom Timlin watches.

FEELING that he let Christianity down by using his sword in the arena, Greg Zurro is consoled by Christian Judy Barich.

CALLING the people to witness, the Emperor, Dan St. Laurent, bravely poses over the "tamed" lion as Androcles stands near.

CAPTAIN of the guard, Jon Sprecher, gives instructions to captured Christians, Judy Barich, Lynn Groesbeck, Mariann LaSota, and Beth Groesbeck. Centurian Gordon Nieman stands guard.

Musical Fantasy Presents Challenge

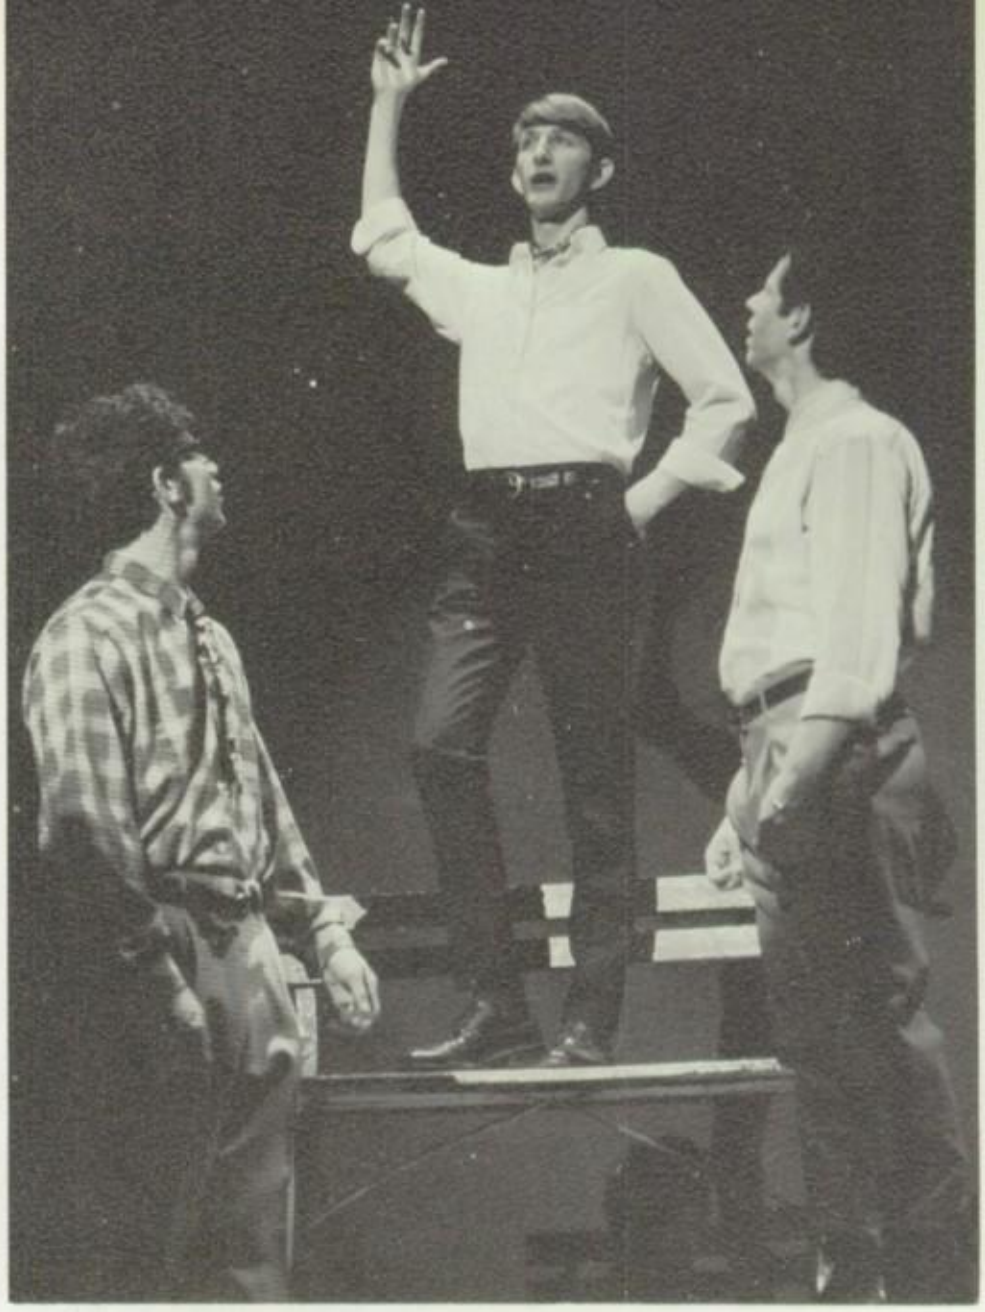
BRIGHTENING the stage with comedy and romance, the spring production of Edmond Rostand's "The Fantasticks," was the first musical play presented at EDHS since "The King and I" in 1960.

This fantasy centered around two young people portrayed by Cynthia Suchocki and Dan St.Laurent, who fall in love while their fathers are involved in a feud. Actually the fathers are pretending to feud while they employ psychology to make sure their children fall in love with each other.

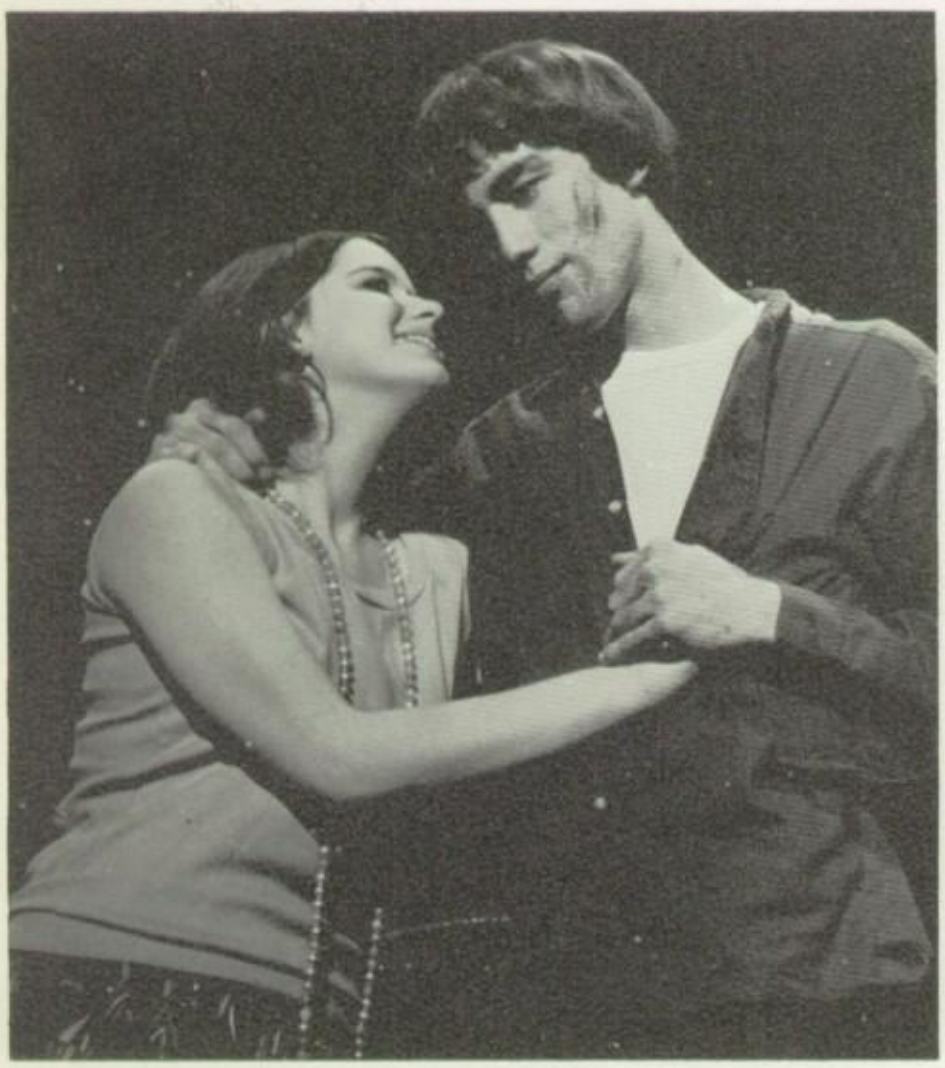
Other leading roles were played by Jim Seppey, Robert Britt, and Tom Thompson. Supporting roles were shared by Howard LeBeau, Louise Matteucci, and Terri Domenick.

The two-act play used simple but effective staging with much of the action on a platform. Special lighting effects were designed by Michael Moody and Howard LeBeau.

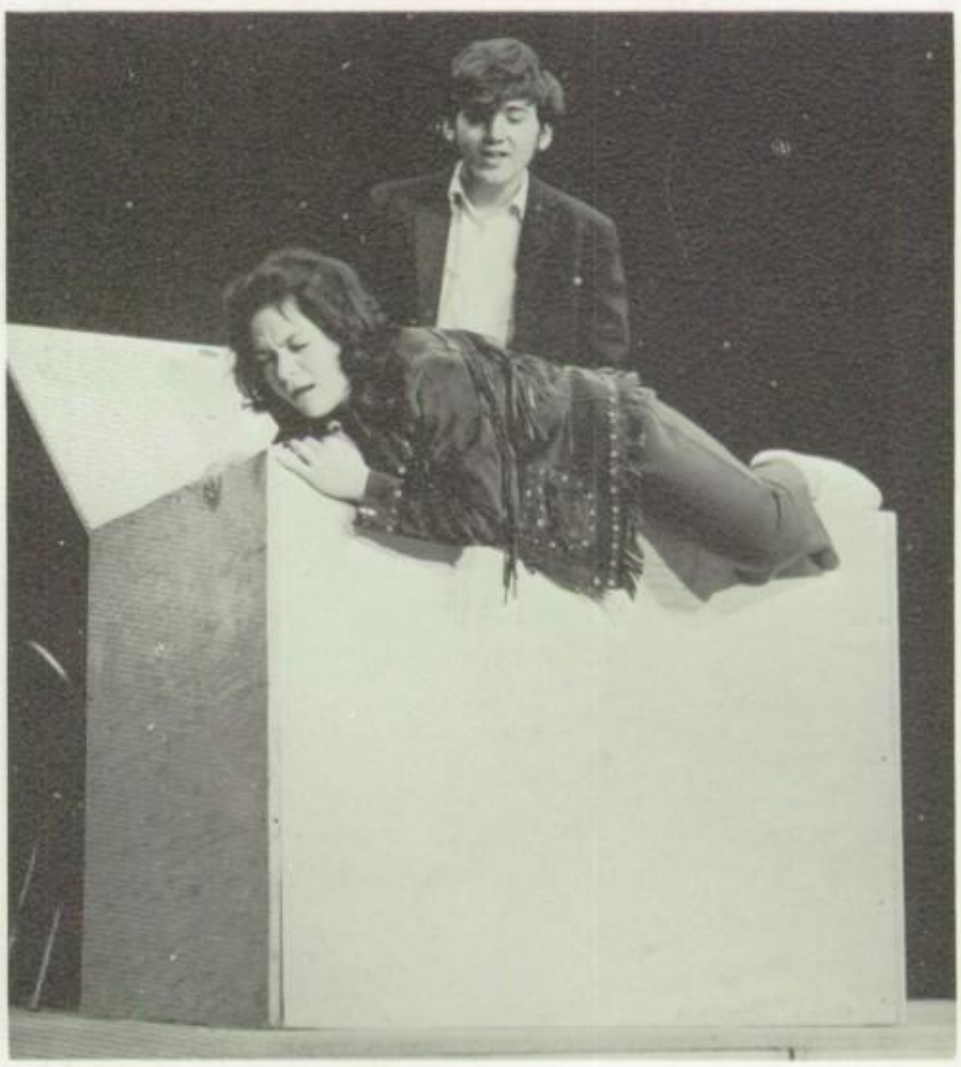
Mr. Raymond Beard directed the play, assisted by student director Judy Barich, and stage manager Marianne LaSota. Mr. Al Marco served as musical director with Mrs. Cynthia Haas and Mrs. Margaret Emlaw in charge of choreography.



EXPLAINING in song and dance the types of abductions he can arrange, Tom Thompson performs for the fathers, Jim Seppey and Bob Britt.



AFTER being exposed to worldly disappointments, Cynthia Suchocki and Dan St.Laurent return home to find they love each other.



HUMOR was provided by the two hired actors played by Louise Matteucci and Howard LeBeau, who enter and exit from a prop box.

EXCHANGE students from Holland, Frank and Philip Steller, watch the basketball team win another game.

WORKING in the school library gives South American exchange students, Jose Rocha and Ariel Sardas an opportunity to exchange ideas.

Exchange Students Add Foreign Flavor

FOUR exchange students from the Netherlands, Brazil, and Uruguay added a foreign touch to the halls of East Detroit high this year.

Frank and Philip Steller from Amersfoort, Holland, were invited to stay with the Porter family of East Detroit. Their older brother, Braum, was an exchange student here in 1965-66.

The twins found EDHS much larger than the one they attended in Europe. One difference they noted was the fact that in Holland the students did not get to choose their courses, however, they did choose the school they wished to attend.

South Americans Ariel Sardas from Montevideo, and Jose Rocha from Rio de Janeiro, enrolled in EDHS for the second semester. Jose is a sophomore and Ariel is a senior who will graduate with the Class of 1969. The boys are sponsored by the Youth For Understanding program.

Each of the boys expressed an appreciation of the friendly, helpful students attending EDHS. They have also shown an interest in, and have taken part in the many extracurricular events offered at the school:

These foreign ambassadors plan to return to their homelands at the close of the school year and will take with them fond memories and many friendships. Students of EDHS will also remember the many contributions made by these exchange students who made attending East Detroit high a more enjoyable adventure in 1969.

Enrollment Down As Cuts Hit Choirs

ECONOMIC curtailments forced the cancelation of two choir classes this year; only the Concert choir remained as a performing vocal group.

Under the direction of Mr. Al Marco, also serving as East Detroit's band director for the 13th year, the singers presented two concerts. The first was the annual Christmas concert which included solo, ensemble, and full choir compositions, as well as instrumental numbers. The second concert was scheduled for May as part of the Fine Arts festival.

In addition, the choir planned to take part in the District and Solo and Ensemble festivals, after a lapse of one year. As in past years, the choir was also scheduled to perform at the various Commencement activities in June.

Because students were allowed only five class contacts this year for credit, some members of the choir joined on a voluntary basis and are not receiving credit. Last year 250 students enrolled in choral classes. This year the total was approximately 50.

STRUTTING in foreground, Gary Graham, along with fellow members of the marching band, perform at Memorial field.

EIGHTY musicians who composed the Concert band, under the direction of Mr. Al Marco, are: FLUTES, Sharon Chabot, Arlene Golembiewski, Phyllis Allen, Linda Robinson, Kathy Boles, Lynn Thieme, Loretta LaLonde, Norma Kuszmaul, Linda Carden, and Freida Pasque. CLARINETS, Charlene Kirby, Bob Kaye, Denise Williams, Nancy Freier, Athine Griggs, John Nasuti, Mike Winfield, Elizabeth Baier, Steve Murray, Suzan Jarsulic, Linda Pompi, Pam Trantham, Mark Solomon, Steve Kusnery, Carl Maszal, Jim Rustowicz, Mike Ireson, and Gary Zanley. BASSOONS, Steve Osterlund and Natalie Ochenski. ALTO CLARINET, Jan Keeler and Carrie Maltese. BASS CLARINET, Mario Bologna and Jeff Dornbush. OBOES, Debby Hemme, Janine Curchet, Eileen Straitor, and Cathy Tice. ALTO SAXES, Carl Sularz, Ann Trinkley, Richard Baier, and Gerald Worley. TENOR SAXES, Danny Speshock and Rick Rottiers. BARITONE SAXOPHONE, Ray Violante. FRENCH HORNS, Ron Rose, Julie Frey, Bill Pilkey, and Roger Engleman. CORNETS, Dave Regan, Richard Dobkowski, Pete Jakubiszen, Glenn Huey, Ron Brandt, Pat Mozdzen, and Alan Hopkins. TRUMPETS, Ben Anson and Alan Kress. BARITONES, Steve Tessman, Gary Housey, and Michael Maljak. TROMBONES, Richard Bichel, Mark Schumaker, Gary Graham, Ken Barrand, Ken Domlovil, and Richard Tignanelli. TUBAS, David Workman, Gary Swiantaniowski, and Robert Rehman. PERCUSSION, John Brogowicz, Dave Rent, Alan Cunningham, Dennis Felker, Rick Rogensues, Jim Pannecouk, Jerry Ratcliffe, Joe Gross, Scott Meyersieck, and Maelouise Meyka.

Despite Cuts Band Earns Top Ratings

STUDENT director, Debby Hemme, presents director Al Marco with gifts from the band members during the Winter Concert.

ENROLLMENT in band classes was cut in half this year because of curtailments caused by successive millage defeats last year.

Nevertheless 80 musicians comprised the Concert band and presented concerts and, after an absence of one year, participated in the District Band festival held at Royal Oak high school.

Students who could not fit band into their schedules under the new cut-back program met three nights a week after school with director Al Marco to continue their musical studies.

A volunteer Marching band was also formed and took part in Western Michigan university's homecoming festivities where it was honored with a second place award. The band also presented colorful half-time shows at the football games and marched in the Veterans and Memorial day parades.

Soloists who contributed their talents to the two scheduled concerts were: Ron Rose, french horn; Sharon Chabot, flute; Dave Regan, trumpet; and Debra Hemme, oboe. Performing as a trombone trio were Richard Bichel, Ken Barrand, and Gary Graham.

With the passage of the millage proposal in January, the Wind Ensemble is scheduled for reinstatement next year, providing two bands as in past years.

21st 'Shenanigans' Has New York Theme

PLAYING before capacity crowds, "Shenanigans '69," an original musical comedy show, lit up the East Detroit stage for three successive nights.

This was the 21st edition of "Shenanigans" directed by Mr. John Enwright who was assisted by Mr. Al Marco who arranged the music and directed the band, and Mr. Raymond Beard who was in charge of stage design, sets, and properties.

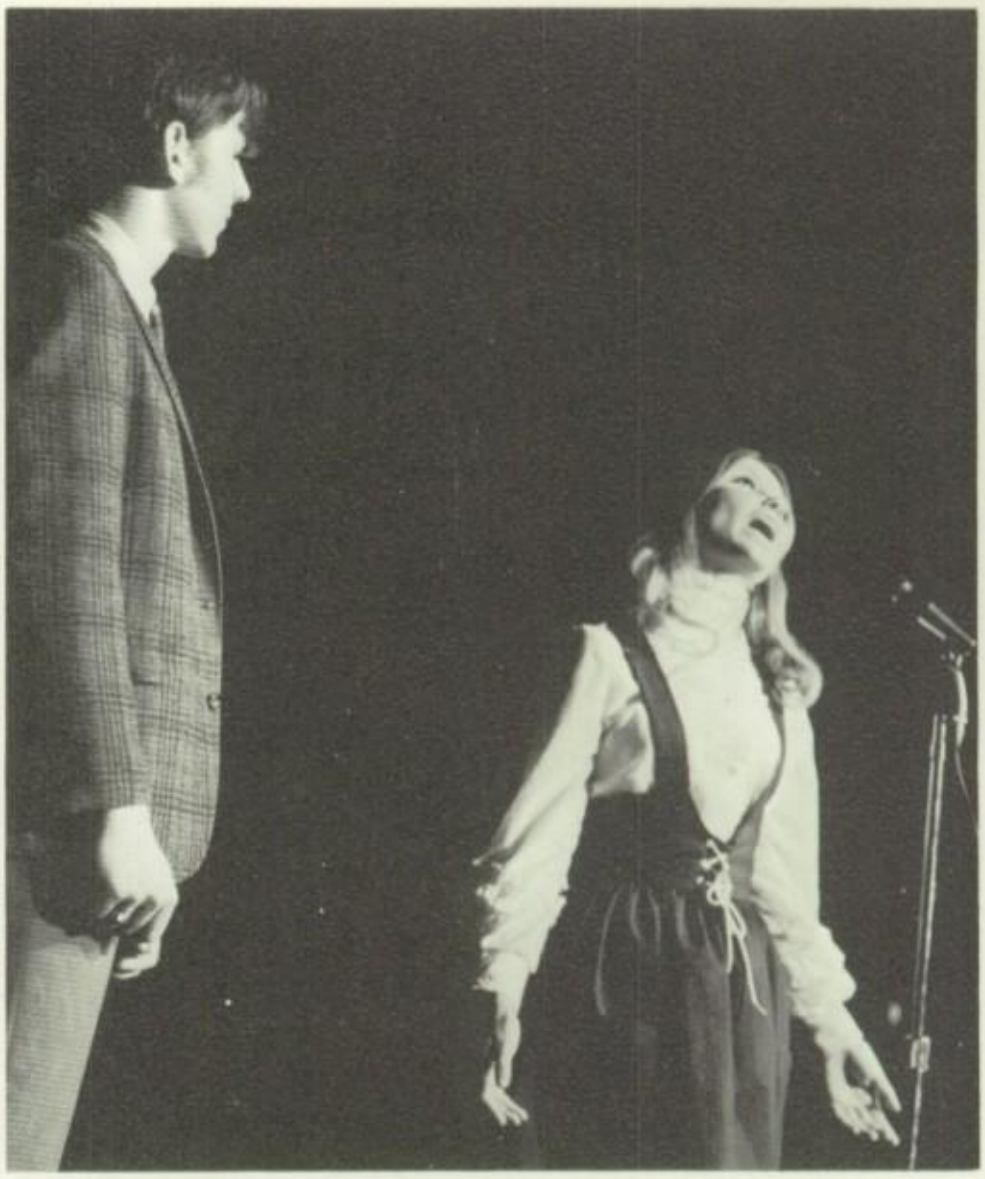
This year's show revolved around two girls, played by Julie Jarkey and Cindy Hand, who went to New York to look for work in the theatrical field. Other leading roles were performed by Robert Horek, Howard LeBeau, John McCullough, and Michael Elliott.

More than 150 singers, dancers, and musicians took part in the big production. Some of the featured performers were: Robert Britt, Dan St. Laurent, Bill Wishart, Dale Hurt, Kathy Murphy, Jon Sprecher, Tom Timlin, Louise Matteucci, and Cindy Suchocki.

Choreographers were: Karen Osantowske and Gale Porter along with EDHS alumnae Carol Getty, Karen Kukuk, and Sue Radtke.

Michael Moody served as sound and light manager and Judy Barich was stage manager. Tarey McGuire and Louise Matteucci were student set designers.

Profits from the show went into the treasuries of the yearbook, band, and Pit and Balcony Drama club.



SINGING about her feelings, Cindy Hand, playing one of the leading roles, confides why she likes her new friend played by Howie LeBeau. BELOW, people on Christopher Street sing "It's Today."

COMEDY was provided by Bob Horek who portrayed a rather eccentric landlord, here concluding a transaction with Julie Jarkey, one of the lead characters. LEFT, Bob Britt accompanies Dan St. Laurent as he sings "By The Time I Get To Phoenix."

Colorful Dances Brighten 'Shenanigans'

DANCING on roller skates was a novel act performed by Ellen Girard, Diane Bargiel, Julie Dalak, Joyce Logsdon, Marilyn Delpier, and Janet Rau. BELOW, Tony Maltese, Karen Osantowske, Tom Timlin, and Julie Dalak are four performers in a dramatic street dance.

Talented Students Win Honors

OUTSTANDING accomplishments in such areas as scholarship, mathematics, speech, and drafting earned special honors for several students at East Detroit high school this year.

Nancy Freier was awarded a certificate for her high performance on the National Merit Scholarship tests which named her a national semi-finalist. Other seniors who received certificates of commendation were: Elizabeth Baier, Marilyn Kedzierski, and Joseph Kielasa. Don Misson scored the highest in the school on the Michigan Math Prize competition and was one of 100 top mathematicians in the state to be invited to an awards banquet.

Senior Elaine Spezia was the recipient of the 1969 DAR Good Citizenship award based on leadership, patriotism, and dependability.

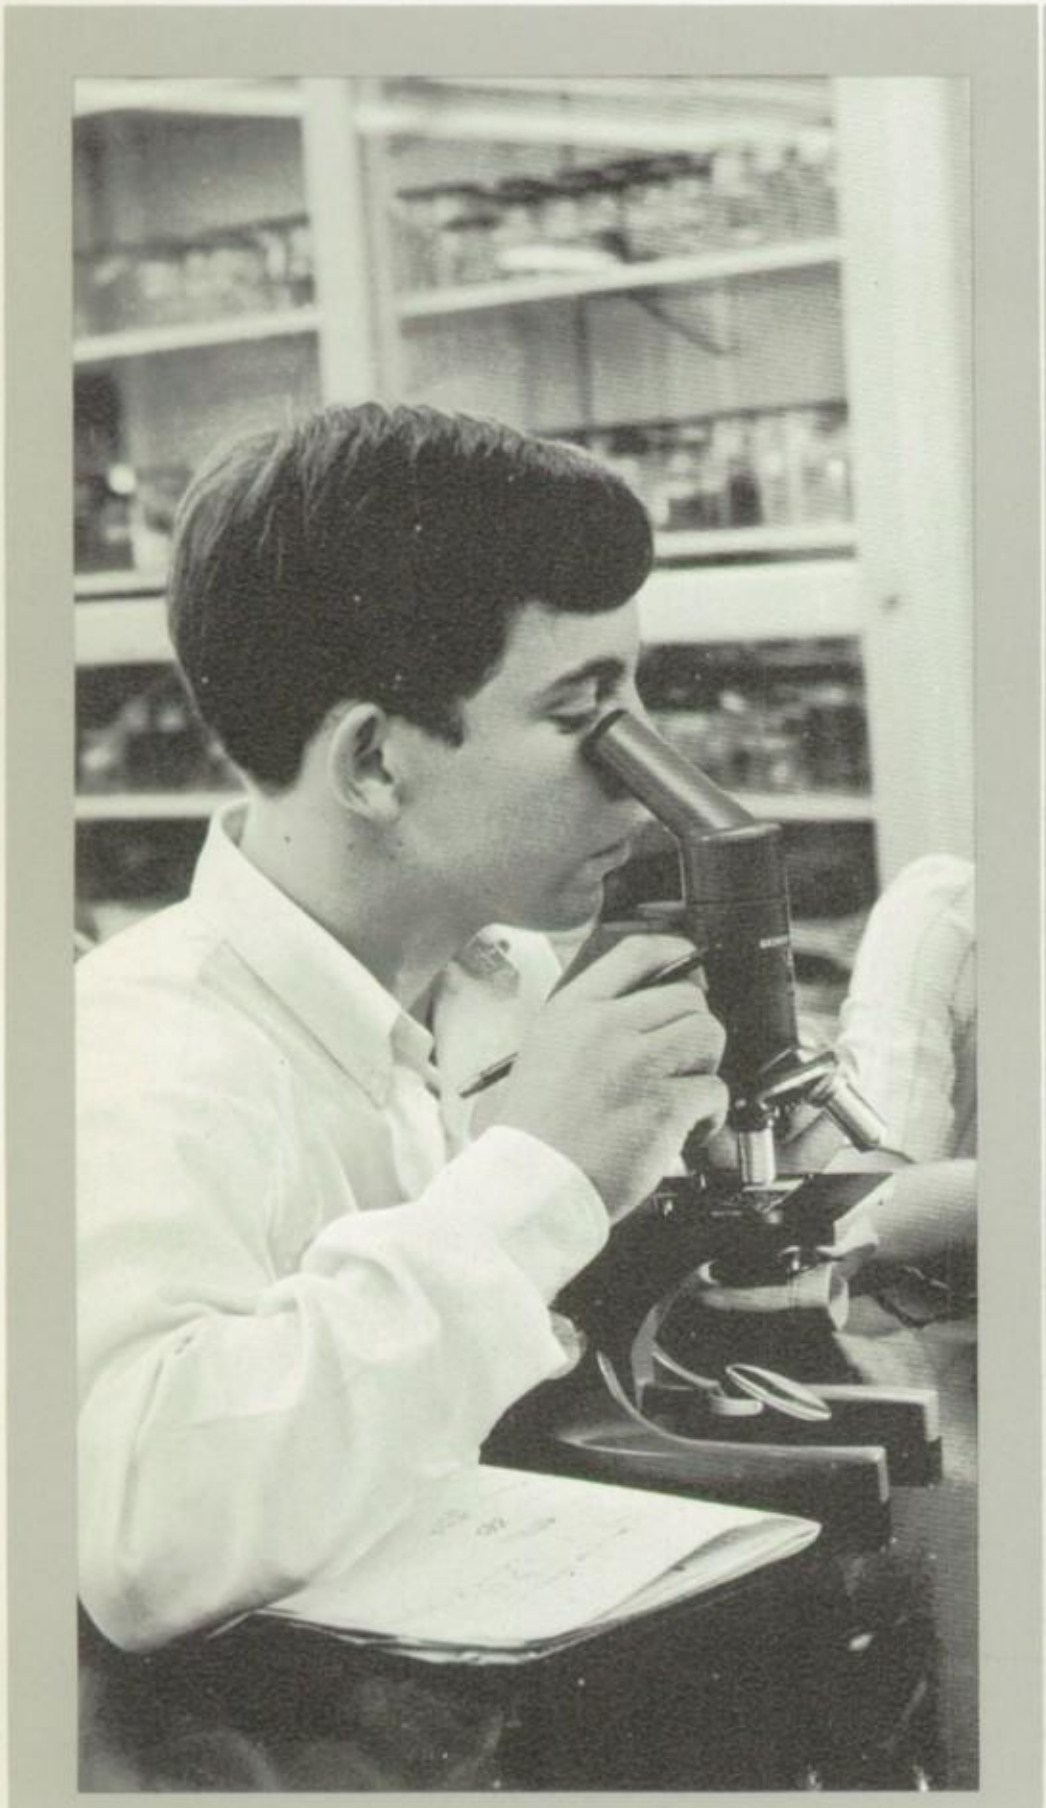
First prize of $125 was won by Victor Boccalon in a drafting contest sponsored by the American Society of Body Engineers. Joseph O'Grady won third place in the contest and received $50.

Kathy Murphy was selected as the local winner of the Voice of Democracy speech contest with the topic "Freedom's Challenge." Students who won honors in the District Forensics competition were: 1st place awards, Robert Dueweke and Linda Willms; 2nd place awards, Beverly Craig and Mary O'Gara.

In the Scholastic Writing Award competition, Laurie Greig won an Honorable Mention certificate for an autobiographical article and Richard Catoni received a Commendation certificate in poetry.

For the fourth consecutive year the title of Cover Girl was earned by a junior. Julie Jarkey won the 1969 honor by collecting more money in her cannisters than any of the other eight contenders.

SPECIAL achievements in speech and writing earned honors for several East Detroit students this year. Mary O'Gara, Robert Dueweke, and Beverly Craig were winners in the District Forensics competition. Richard Catoni and Laurie Greig won Scholastic Writing awards.



ACADEMICS

Taking Time For Learning

MANY hours of study and work constituted each student's life at EDHS. Like clockwork they followed class schedules, each filled with new experiences and mind-expanding projects. In a three year span students had the opportunity to learn and create, gaining knowledge for an almost boundless future.

Mechanical Appeal Increases Classes

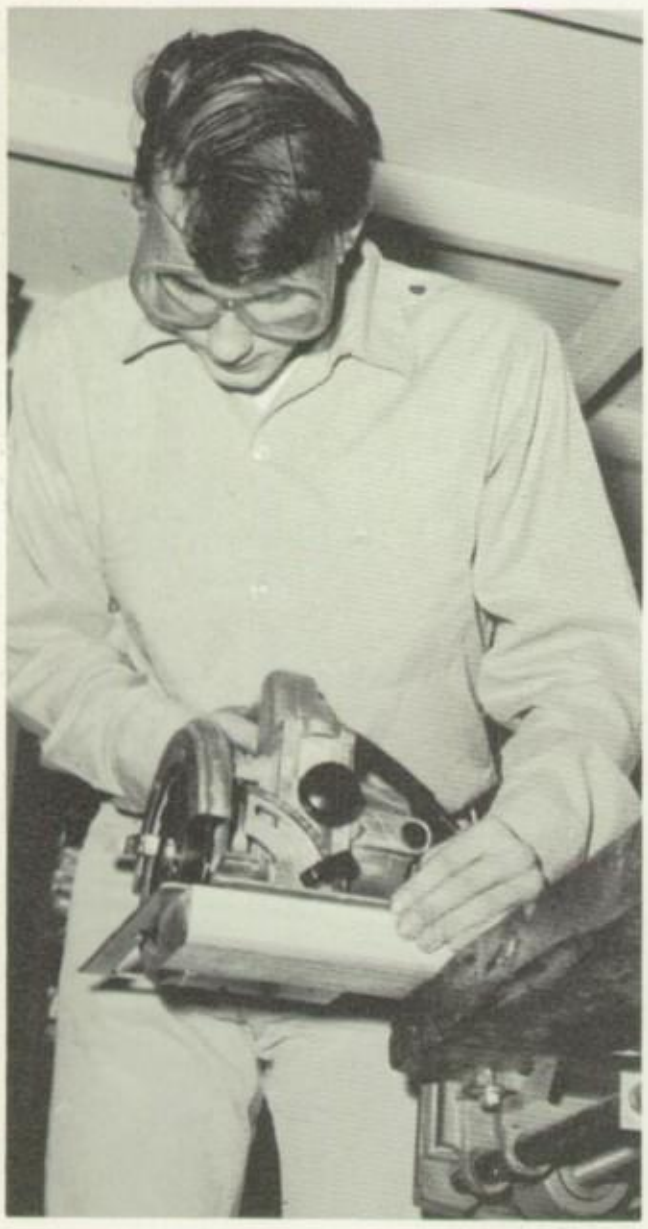
INCREASED enrollment due to a special interest in the study of power mechanics added four classes to the industrial arts program this year.

Power mechanics students studied engine power through the use of small steam, electric, and gasoline engines, learning both the operation and repair aspects.

Practical experience was gained in metal shop and metal fabrics through the use of lathes, grinders, welders and other machines. Special techniques in cutting, finishing and constructing wood products were mastered in the woodshop course.

To help become familiar with currents, voltage, and various uses of electricity, members of the electronics class studied and constructed radios, relays, and electric motors.

Mechanical drawing students developed skills in freehand sketching, dimensioning, and designing machine parts, while architectual drafting students showed creativity by designing model homes and buildings.



WOODSHOP student Terry Hamilton uses a skill saw in cutting wood for a project.

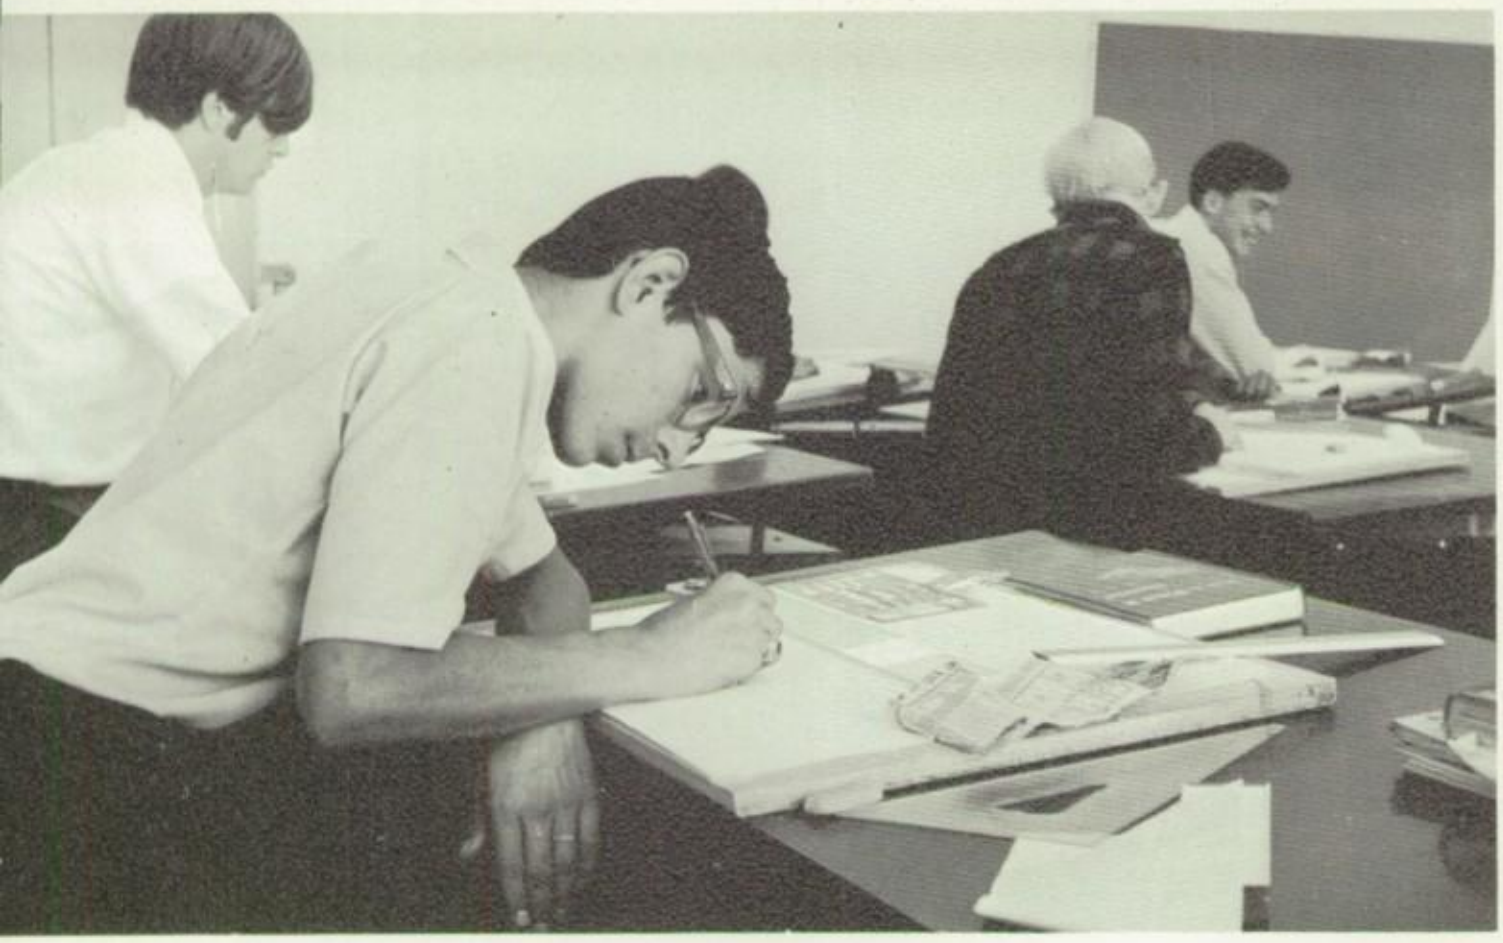
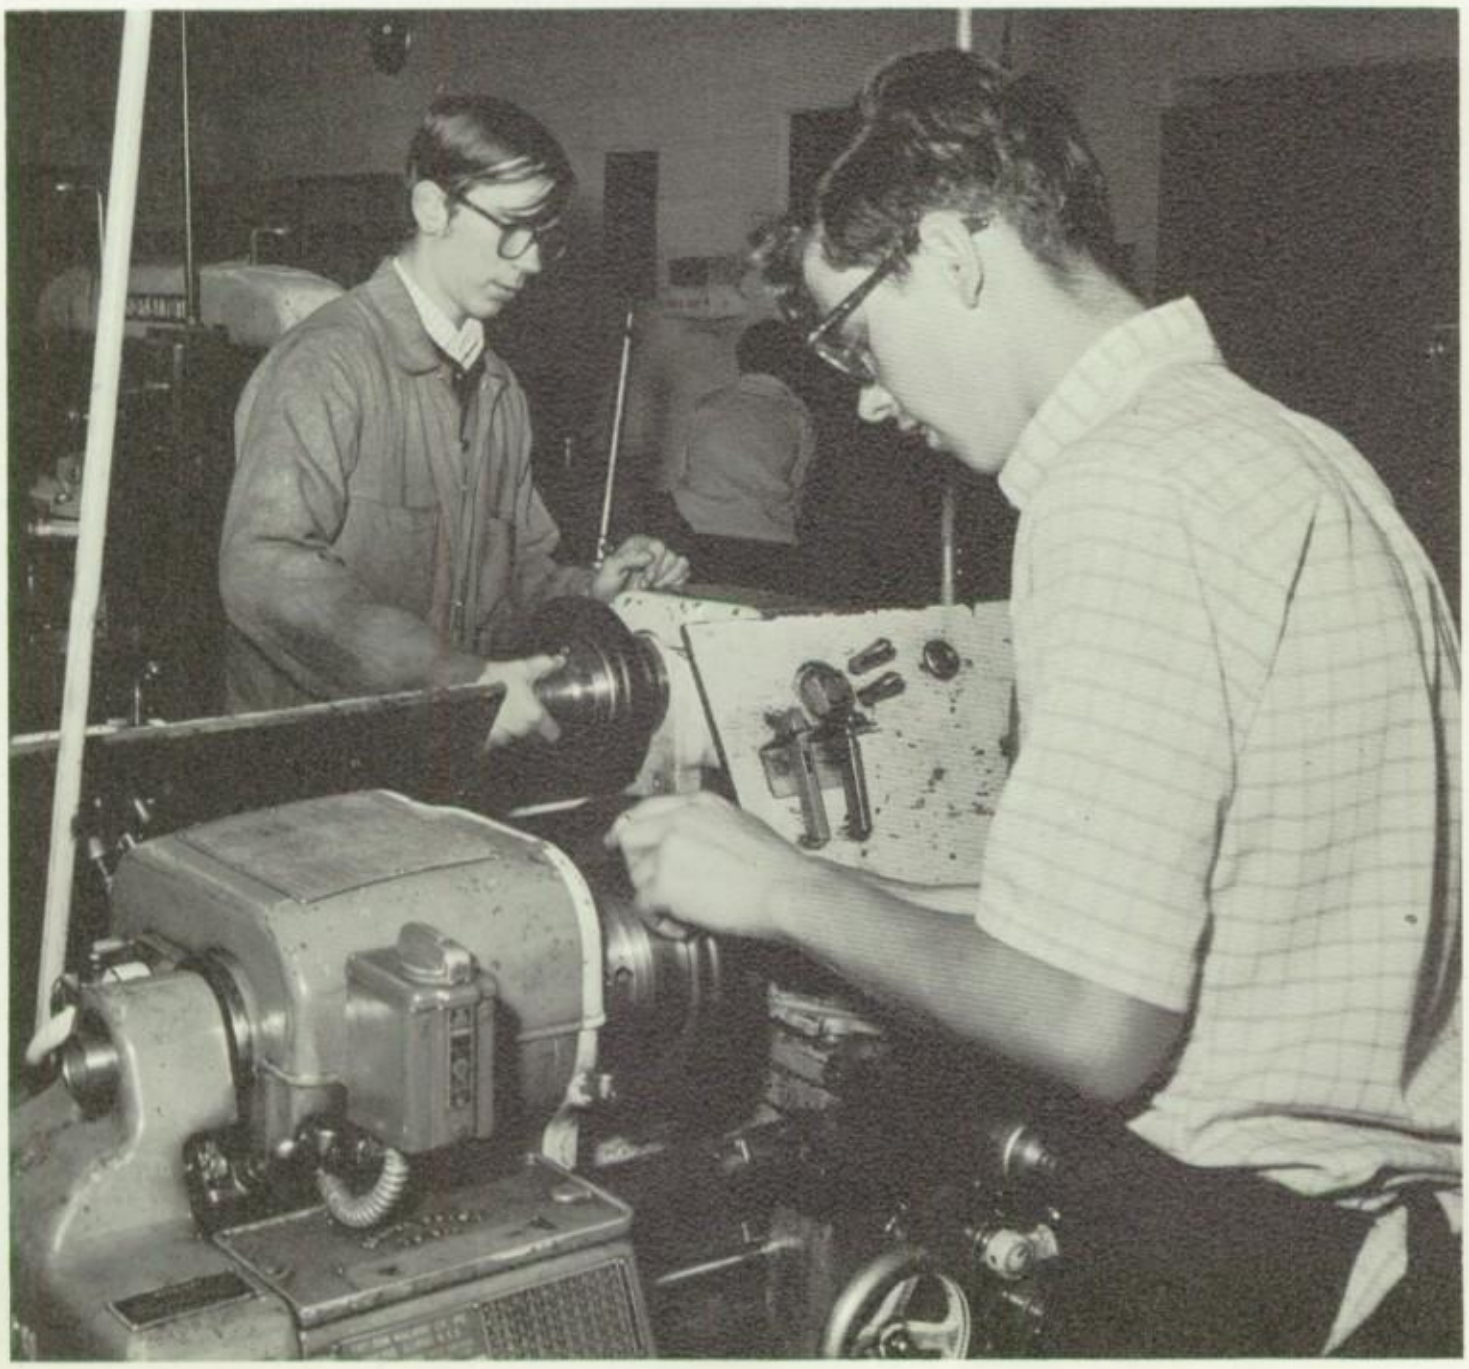
PRACTICING to use tools such as a square is one of the skills learned in woodshop. Dennis Schmidt and Fred Como work under the supervision of Mr. Joe Antone.

FLAMES SHOOTING FROM A WELDING TORCH DRAMATICALLY LIGHT UP A BOOTH IN THE METAL FABRICATION SHOP.

Students Master Trade Crafts



MECHANICAL drawing students such as Nick Van Heusden learn to use precise measurements in preparing their assignments.



LEARNING to operate an engine lathe, Robert Lutz and Roy Yarbro gain experience in their machine metal class.

Future Homemakers Learn Skills

SHORTENED class periods and curricular cutbacks caused some changes in the homemaking department this year.

East Detroit's "cooks" often had to refrigerate their creations until the next class period. However, students still had time for special units in such areas as interior design and furnishing, nutrition, proper health care, child care, good grooming, fashion, and textiles.

One of the most popular units of study was the foreign foods projects. Students prepared and served foreign cuisine often in the costumes of the country. To close their unit students visited a foreign restaurant.

Sewing classes started out with simple creations for children and worked their way up to suits, coats, and formals.

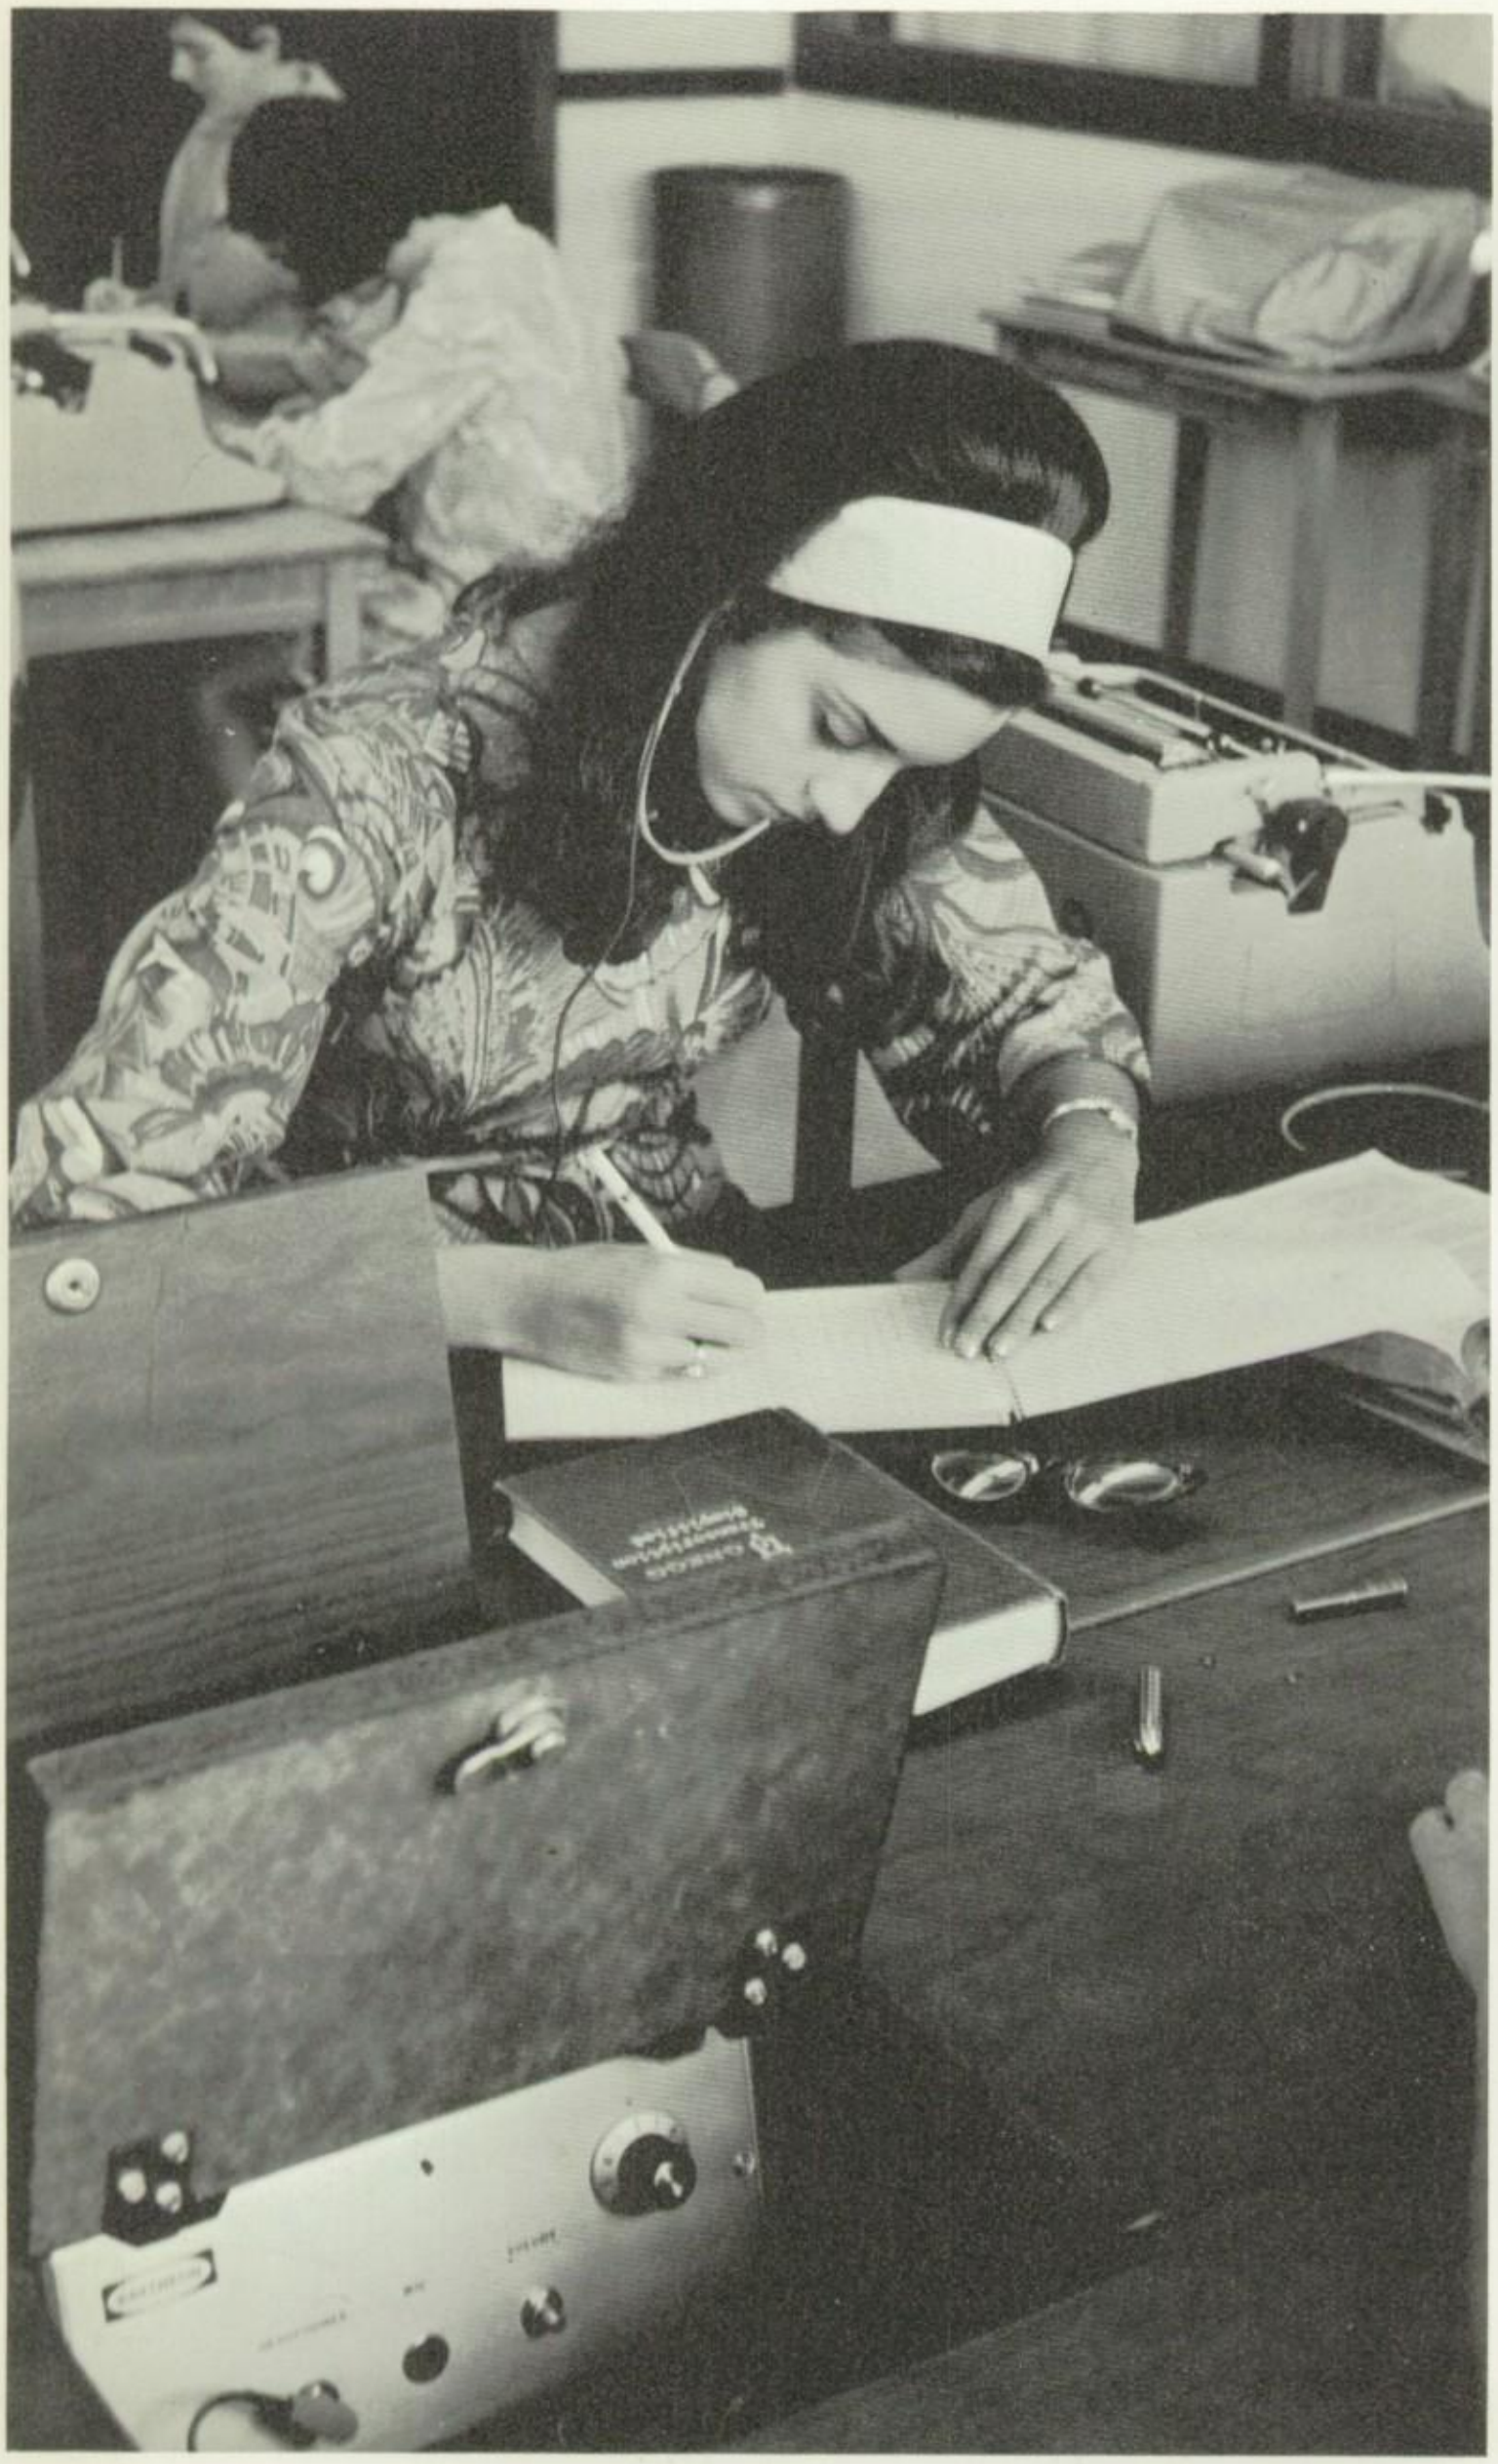
Again this year, students, including boys interested in making the preparation of food a vocation, had the opportunity to study in the commercial foods class.

AFTER preparing a wedding shower buffet, homemaking students Connie Sweeney and Karen Schuchard help themselves to the various dishes.

SEWING machines hummed as homemaking students such as Terri Broderdorf finished garments they created as class project.

LEARNING butchering techniques in commercial foods class, Chuck Rayner separates the meat from the fat under Miss Gwendolyn Pauli's supervision.

MEASURING a jacket for a lining, Rosie O'Grady and Mary Jane Bourdeau, made use of a dressmaker's mannequin.



NEW shorthand laboratories helped students advance at their own rates to greater speeds in taking dictation. Mary Leone uses one of the new machines.

LATEST addition to the department is the key punch course. Diane Lage and Janice Copeland learn to transpose data on the new machines.

Department Adds New Shorthand Labs

ASSISTANCE and individualized help was provided for shorthand students this year with a new 30-unit laboratory installed in the business education department.

Each of the new units has four channels with varying rates of taped dictation which enables students to progress at their own speed.

A new course in IBM Key Punch was also offered to the office practice and advanced typing classes providing some 430 students an opportunity to gain experience in the computerized business field. Students not pursuing a business career enrolled in a one year personal typing class instead of the one semester course of past years.

Another innovation was the addition of business organization and management, a class which provided an introduction to business and a basic background in law.

Other classes such as office machines, merchandizing, bookkeeping, and business law gave direction to students planning to enter the world of business.

TYPING FOR SPEED AND ACCURACY ON ELECTRIC TYPEWRITERS PROVED A CHALLENGE TO ADVANCED TYPING STUDENTS.

Co-op Expansion Includes Juniors

INTERESTED and scholastically eligible junior girls had an opportunity to take part in the co-op training program for the first time this year. Nursing theory served as a pre-training course for juniors and enabled them to begin "on the job" training at the start of the senior year.

After a six-week training period, senior girls in the nursing program took jobs at Detroit Memorial, South Macomb, and Mt. Clemens General hospitals. As nurses aids, they performed such duties as feeding and bathing patients, taking temperature, pulse, and respiration, and making beds.

Commercial foods students were employed in restaurants, pizzerias and bakeries where they had an opportunity to utilize their training in preparing and serving food.

Twenty seniors worked at jobs in factories and service stations as part of the co-op program in the industrial education department. Another 110 business education students also participatd in the program in the office and retail field.

Co-op participants received five semester hour credits and regular wages for their work. Co-ordinators Mr. Lee Couretas, Mrs. Pauline Poma, Mr. Harold Gaertner, and Mrs. Gwendolyn Pauli helped locate jobs and place students in the various fields.

EMPLOYED at a service station, industrial co-op student, Gary Miller uses his background in auto mechanics to repair an engine.

NURSES Co-op students Barbara Hoag and Sue Turnquist help a small boy while working as nurses aids in a local hospital.

GAINING experience in the proper method for feeding patients, nurses co-op students Pat Zynda, Sue Turnquist, and Julie Bradley practice on Marty Williams.

BALANCING on the uneven parallel bars Eveann Promesso demonstrates a position for her classmates.

PHYSICAL education students practice beginning drills during swimming class, under the supervision of Mr. Fred Lee.

Swimming Classes Head Gym Program

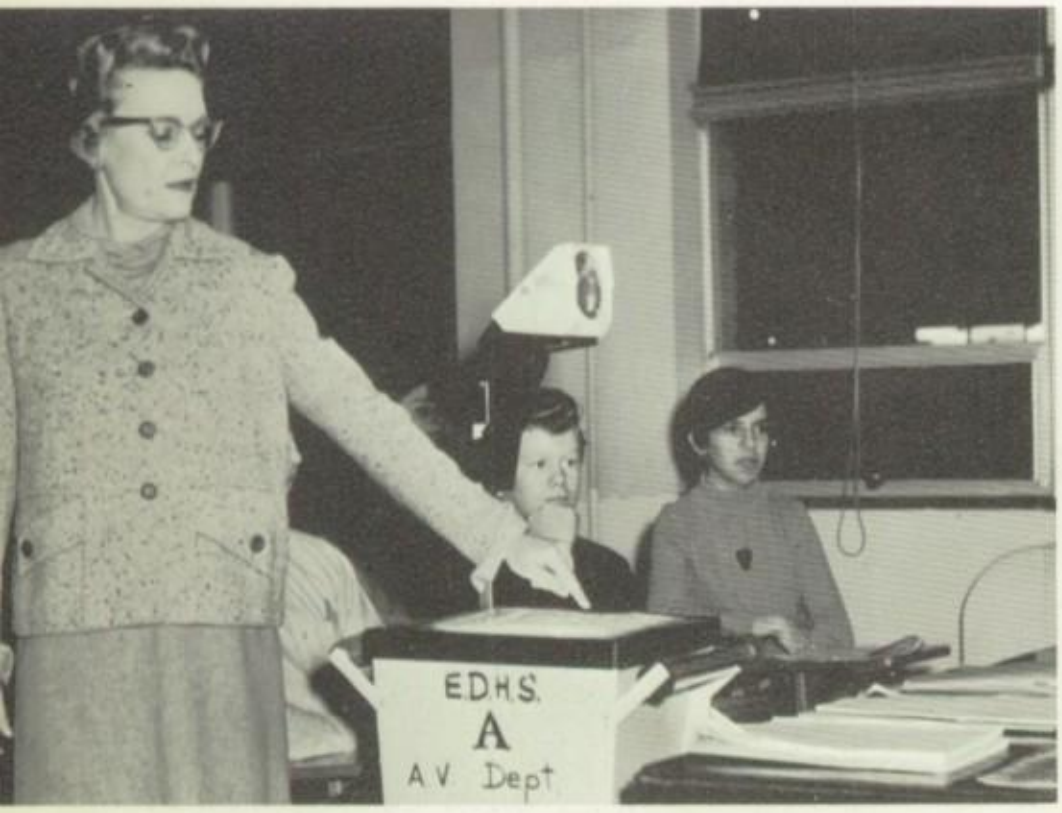
SWIMMING classes were introduced for the first time at EDHS this year, with the completion of its olympic size pool.

Instruction was provided for both beginners and advanced swimmers with special stress on a new technique of safety called "drown proofing." Another innovation this year was the introduction of four co-educational health classes. Some of the swimming classes were also co-educational.

Juniors this year were not required to take a semester of gym and health, but could take gym as an elective course. Sophomores, however, were required to have one semester of health and one semester of gym which included 12 weeks of swimming and six weeks of physical training in the gym.

Physical fitness tests were not administered to students this year. Instead, each student was given a progress sheet of his own to record his developments in the various areas of physical fitness.

Students Study Social Problems



TRANSPARENCIES shown on an overhead projector provided visual help in understanding a special weekly student newspaper project used in Miss Kathryn Penix's world history classes.

AMERICAN Society, a one year course dealing with the social problems of America today, was offered for the first time this year to interested students.

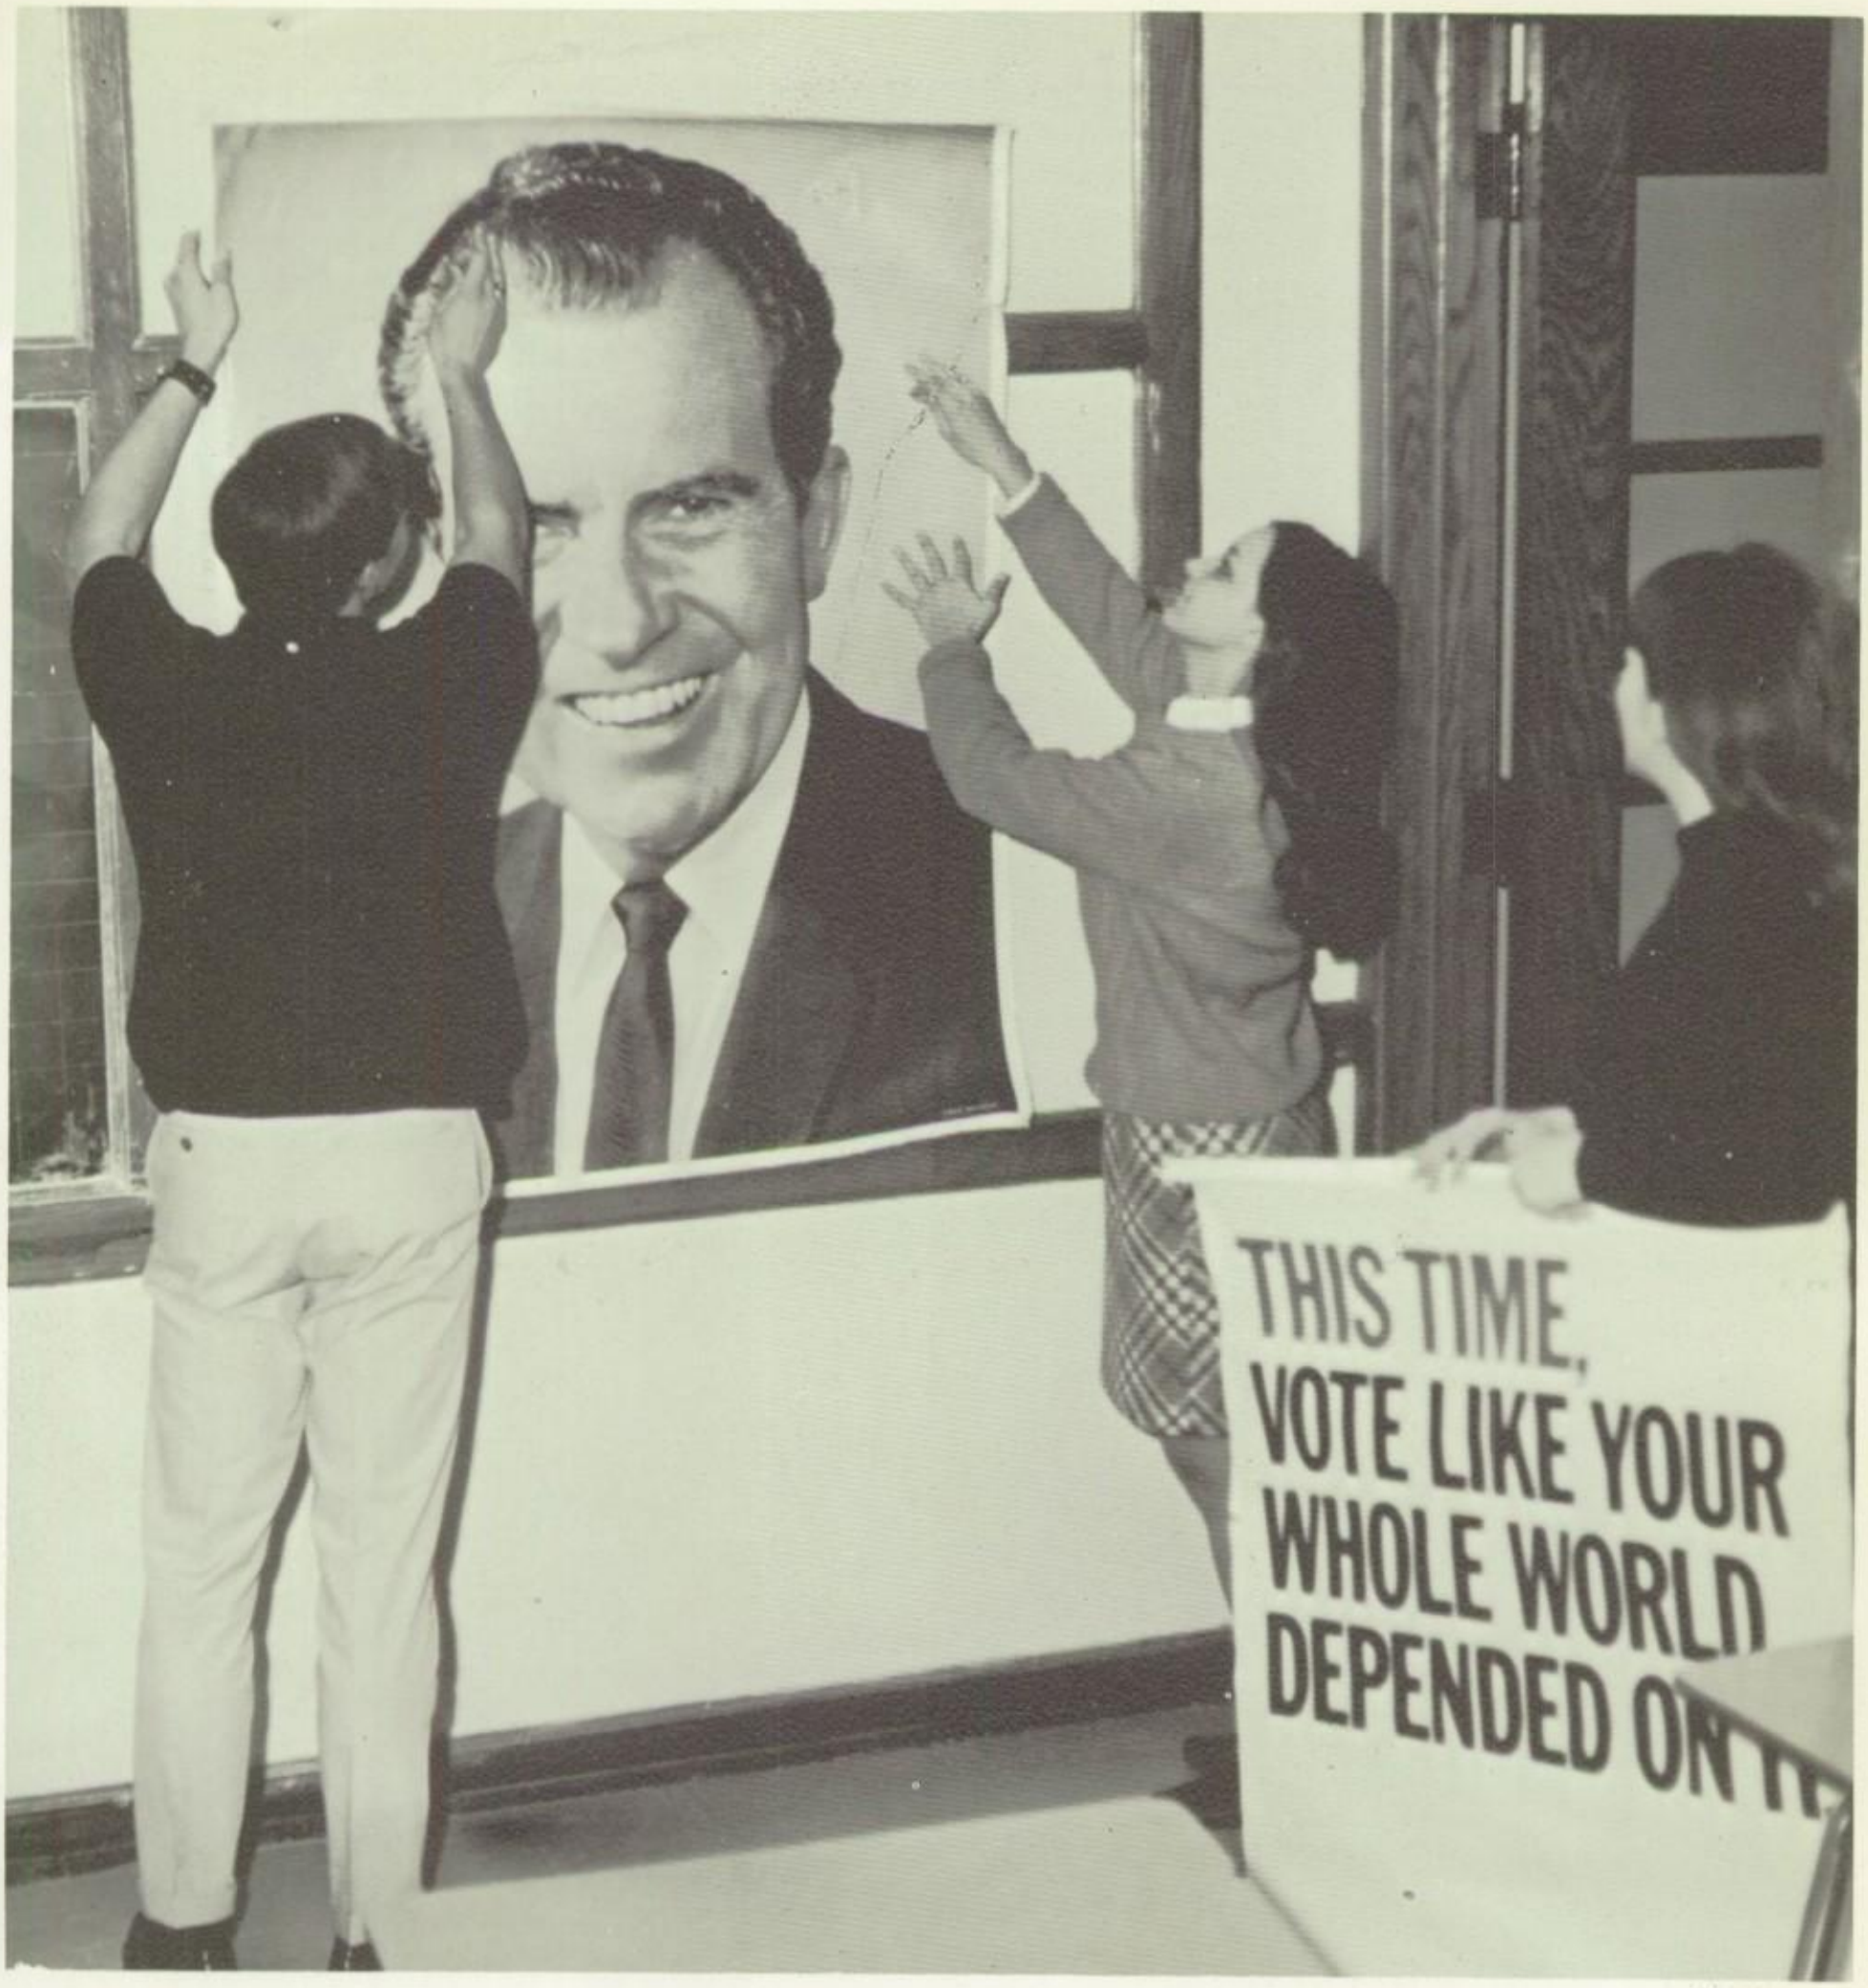
Classes dealt with such problems as criminology, race, enviornment, culture, social development, and their effects on man.

Several social studies teachers experimented with new methods of teaching such as the inquiry approach and the theme and concept methods. Others used projects such as student collective bargaining committees to discover the problems management and labor encounter during negotiations. Increased use was made of visual aids, paperbacks, weekly news magazines, and other resource materials available.

Because 1968 was an election year, the department conducted a mock presidential election using official voting machines. Hubert Humphrey was an easy winner in this poll.

Lack of funds due to past millage failures caused the cancellation of the annual Washington-New York tour this year. Curtailments also caused a reduction of field trips, cutbacks in materials, and the loss of two teachers from the social studies department.

MOCK presidential elections gave students Pat Milostan, Mike Hays, and Rick Tarnowski, the chance to cast their vote for the candidate of their choice.



ELECTION year was exciting for social studies students who backed their favorite candidates. Although vice president Humphrey won the largest student vote, Nixon backers Bob Anderson, Carol Halicki, and Kathy Hart hang up some of the largest posters.

School Expands Language Course

CLIMAXING two years of innovations the foreign language department added a second year German course to its curriculum.

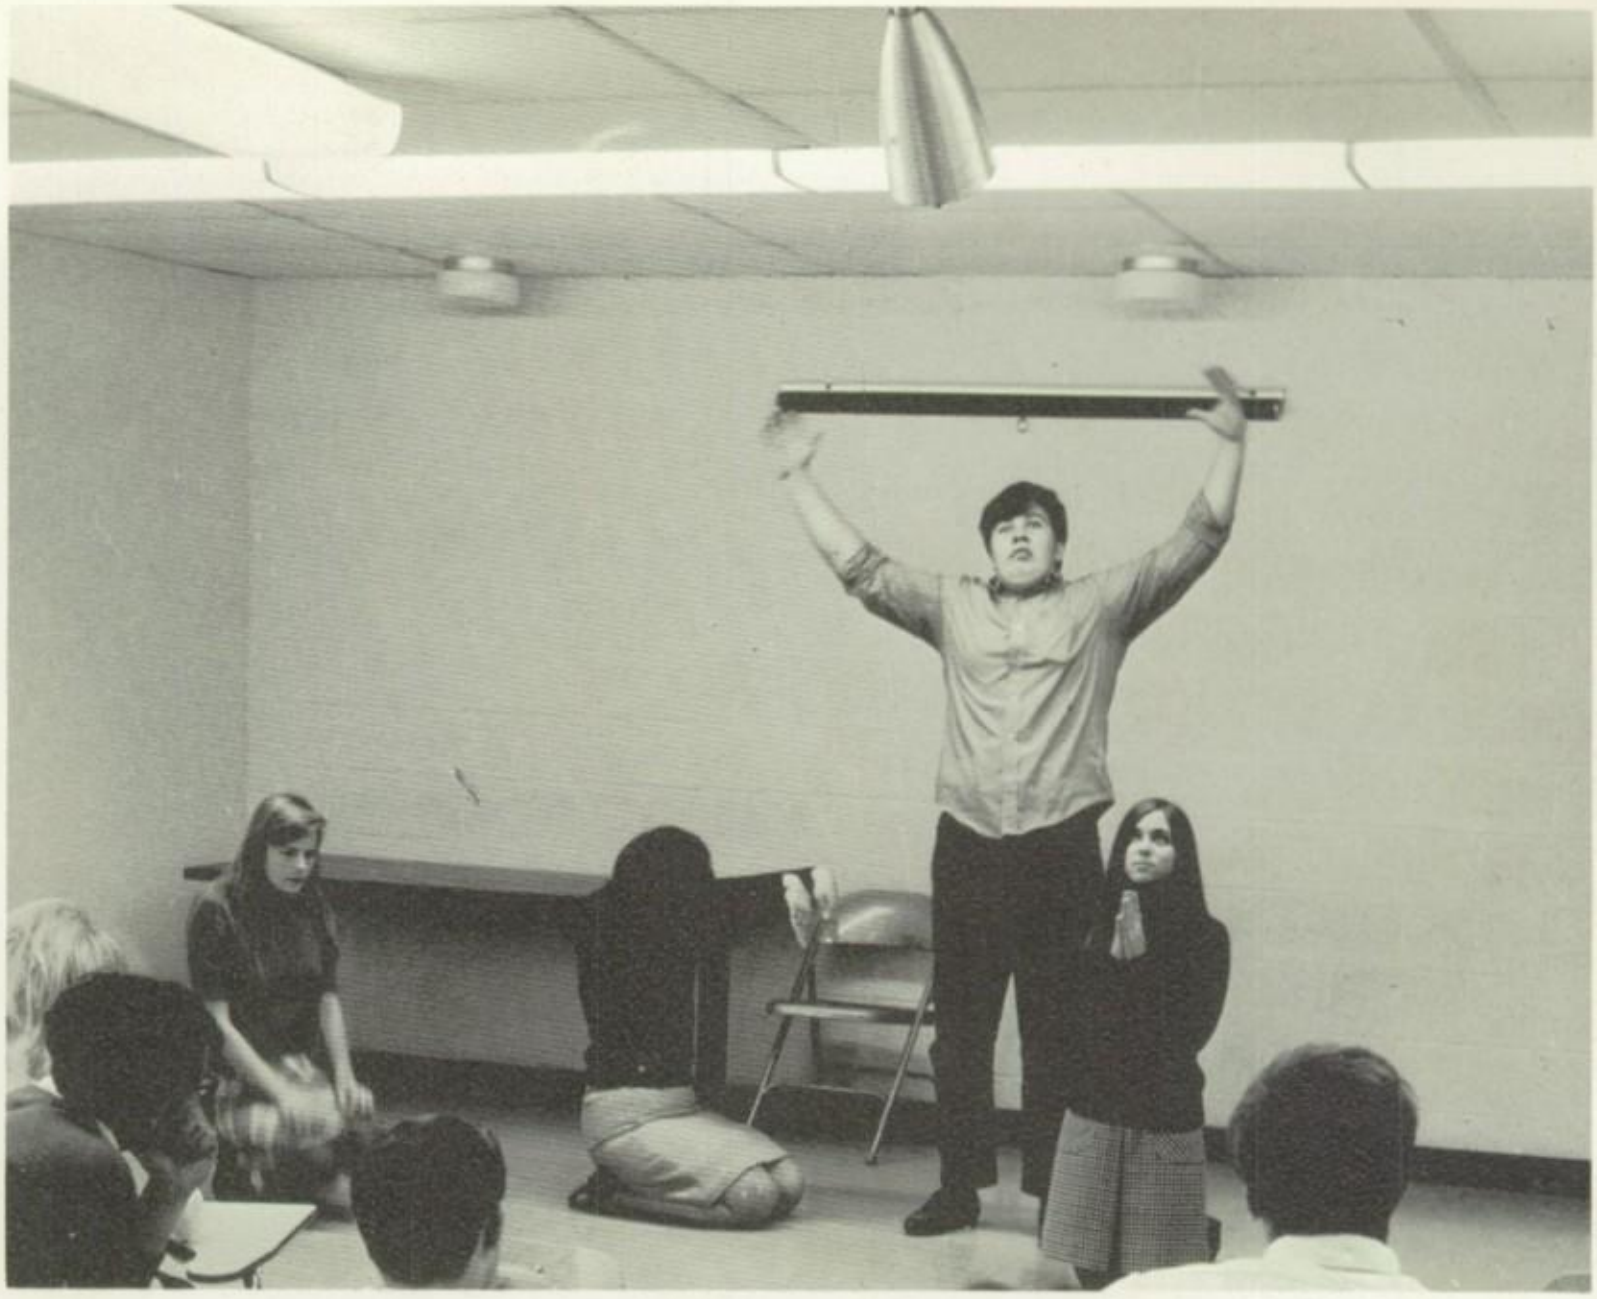
The department was comprised of approximately 470 students this year who enrolled in Spanish, French or German classes.

First year students gained a basic knowledge of the spoken and written language of their choice. In the second year, students wrote short stories and skits and gave impromptu speeches. One of the novel learning devices applied in class was the creation of cross-word puzzles using foreign words.

Advanced language students were introduced to foreign literature in its original form as they improved their grammatical skills and enriched their vocabularies.

Language labs, which have become a valuable aid to the foreign language teachers, were employed again this year. Tapes used in the labs provided the student with a chance to improve pronunciation and the teacher with a means of individual instruction.

GERMAN students helped one another while translating dialogues. Mr. Rudolph Wolf works with George DePonio, Peggy Petrone, Margie Rivera, and Marilyn Kedzierski.



DRAMA students Gail Winslow, Terry McGuire Greg Zurro, and Marie Viviano imitate objects such as a cardboard box, a volcano, and peace for their classmates.

PREPARING to discuss various aspects of modern music, English students Karl Melbardis, Chuck Stickney, Diane Maroni, Marie Daschke, Pam Hannah, and Janice Hunt listen to a record.

COMPOSITION class was video taped as an experiment. Carol Dembeck, Dennis Norris, and Dolly Sirhan lead a discussion on the movie "2001, A Space Odyssey," while Harry Mowen operates the camera.

PORTRAYING characters from "Crime and Punishment," composition students Maribeth Ruedger and Mike Brown recreate a scene.

Communications Develop Talents

ALTHOUGH millage defeat in 1968 caused overcrowded classrooms and cut-backs in the English staff, innovations were still applied to the curriculum. Units on Negro literature were added to some sophomore classes this year and were accompanied by a student exchange between EDHS and Martin Luther King high in Detroit.

Traditionally the department has sponsored cultural opportunities such as playing host to a theater group and conducting various field trips. English literature classes attended Wayne State university's Hilberry Classic theater to view Shakespeare's "Hamlet" and later a junior group visited the same theater for a presentation of "Julius Ceasar."

The Performing Arts company of Michigan State university returned for the fifth year but this time with two separate performances—an evening performance of "The Government Inspector" and, for the elementary students, a matinee presentation of "Pinoccio."

As in the past, senior composition students spent hours of work on term papers and other in-depth research projects, giving special interest to style, technique and theme.

The underclassmen studied the authors and literature of America and the historic development of literature throughout the world.

Drama students discovered new acting techniques and learned the technical aspects of play production.

DEMONSTRATION speeches provided an opportunity for Gary Bell to serve as an amateur disc jockey in his speech class.

Journalism, Speech Aid Communication

JOURNALISM and speech classes provided students an opportunity to discover and develop talents in the field of communication.

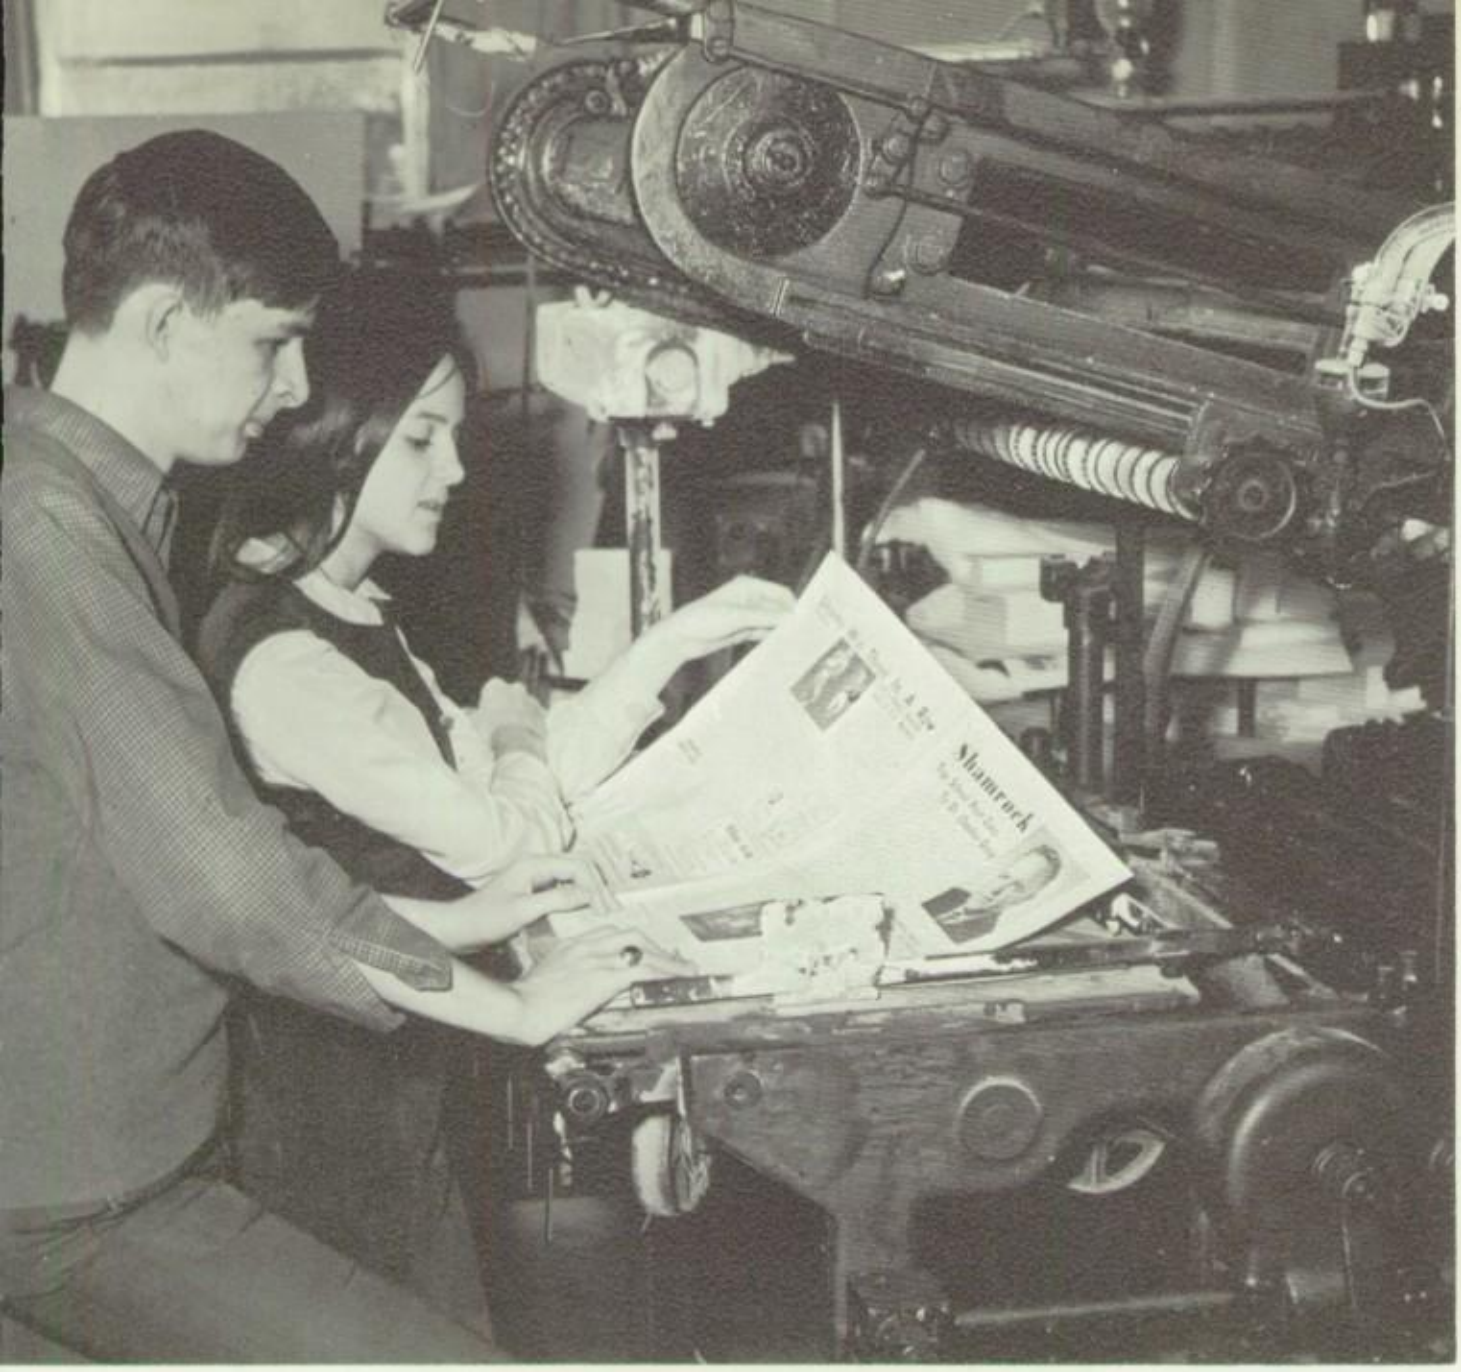
All students received copies of the school newspaper this year, since the subscription to The Shamrock was included in the book fees. An enlarged edition of the paper, including news from all the schools in the system, was sent to residents of the city several times throughout the year.

Editors-in-chief Dan Ross and Debby Poirier directed the 22 members of the Shamrock staff in publishing the school newspaper and the "Leprechaun" magazine, a publication of short stories and poems by EDHS students.

Under the supervision of a new adviser, Mr. Robert Freidland, first year journalism students studied the fundamentals of news, feature, editorial, and sports writing.

Speech students developed confidence in public speaking by studying, preparing, and delivering various types of speeches in class. They also studied literary works and participated in open discussion and made evaluations of speeches given by their fellow classmates.

DEVELOPING poise and confidence in the field of public speaking Paul Garavaglia delivers a speech before the class. Listening attentively are fellow students Bill Lutteke, Gary Pulice, Mary DeLuca, Debbie Reichenbach, Terry Nester, and Howard LeBeau.



EDITORS-IN-CHIEF Dan Ross and Debby Poirier examine a finished copy of the school newspaper at the printers.

MUCH time is spent in the newspaper office by supervising editors of e Shamrock. Jeff Springfield took charge of the feature pages, Gary lice, sports, and Sue Oren headed the news staff.

JOURNALISM students Mary Olson and Mary Ann Clegg count and stack newspapers prior to distribution.

BAND practice sessions were lively affairs. Adding to the sound are French horn players Ron Rose, Julie Frey and Bill Pilkey.

Curtailments Hit Music, Art Classes

BECAUSE of curtailments in the music department approximately 350 students were unable to enroll in music classes this year.

Mr. Al Marco was the only music teacher, therefore, only one band and choir class was offered. An after school band was organized to provide an opportunity for those students unable to fit band class into their schedule to continue their musical studies.

Music theory, a college level course, and a music appreciation class completed the offerings of the music department this year.

Despite the loss of one teacher the art department added a new class, advanced drawing and printing, to its program. Students studied graphics and learned how to reproduce prints.

Students in creative design and 3-D art classes had an opportunity to show their creativity on projects in sculpturing, pottery, and jewelry.

Other students developed their artistic talents in drawing, home decorating, and painting classes.

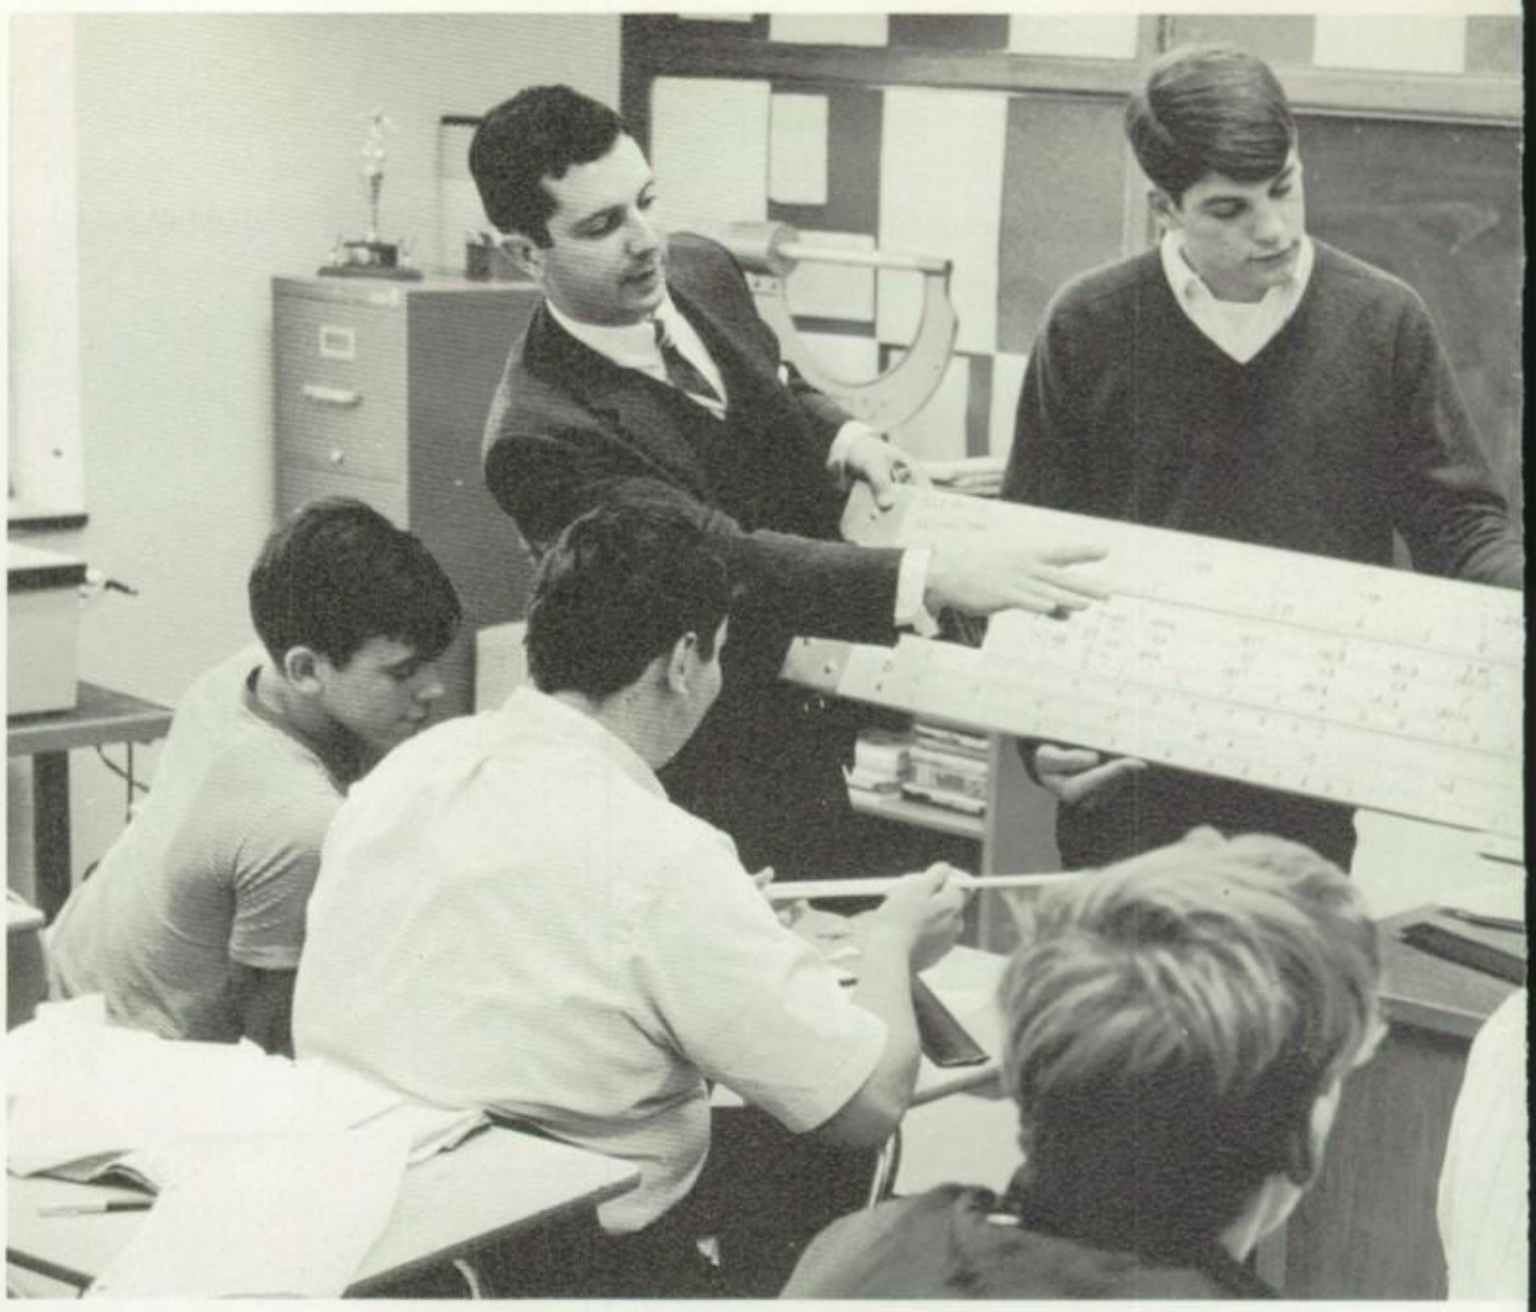
CREATING an atmosphere unrelated to that of the classroom, art students Chris Clements, Bill Ashton, Julie Jarkey, Lynne Wayne and Dale McCauley take advantage of the warm day and sunshine to sketch familiar scenes of autumn in front of the school.



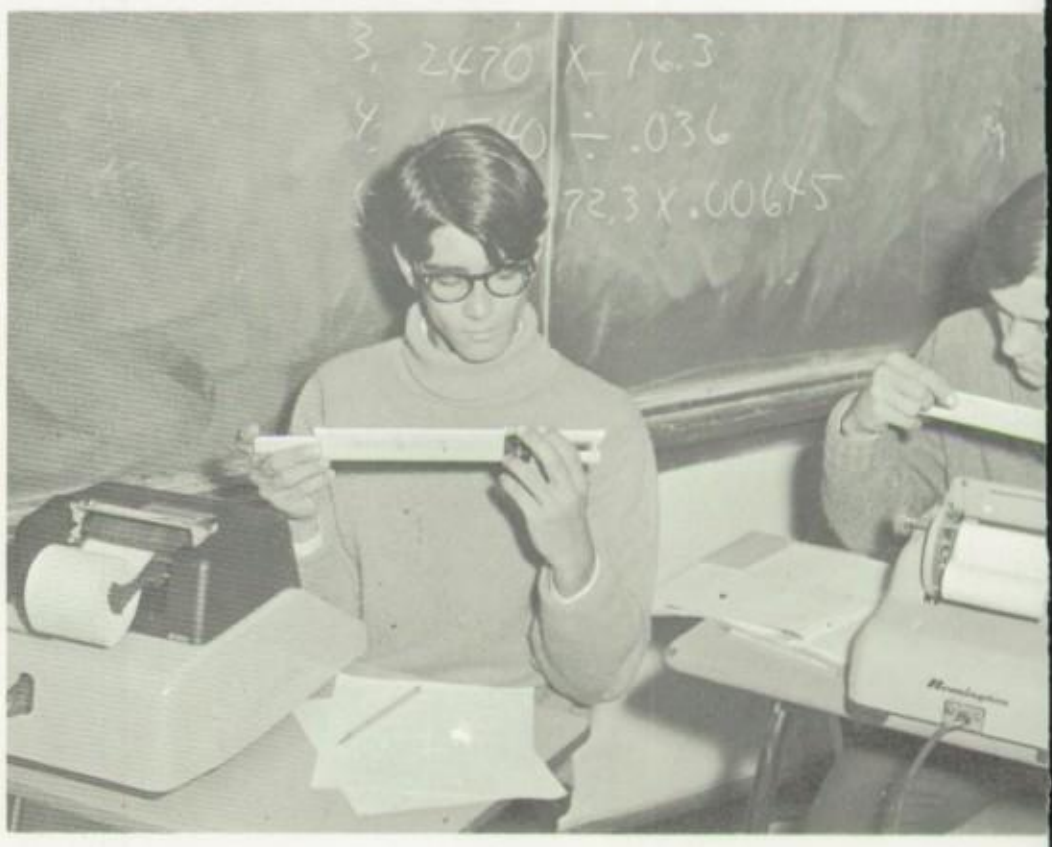
USING an over-sized slide rule Mr. Paul Brimo explains its use to his applied algebra class, with the assistance of Bob Peri and Bob Rehman.

Department Adds New Algebra Class

APPROXIMATELY 50 per cent of the student body of East Detroit high were enrolled in a mathematics course this year. The millage defeat of 1968 which put numerous curricular cut-backs into effect for the 1968-69 school year did not have as great an effect on this department as it did on others. Only one class, math analysis, was lost when the usual two groups had to be condensed into one.

Students enrolled in an academic program requiring a minor or major in mathematics, attended classes in geometry, advanced algebra, and math analysis. Industrial and business students gained a sound knowledge of basic math principles in such courses as consumer math, modern math, and applied algebra, which replaced shop math this year.

Overhead projectors, accompanied by a detailed set of transparencies, were used to better explain material covered in the texts and two new calculators were purchased to aid the applied algebra instructors. Computors and text books, needed for a follow-up course in computer programming, were unfortunately beyond the financial reach of administrators.



CALCULATORS and slide rules were some of the tools used by Frank LaRosa and Richard Kramer in their algebra class.

PERSPECTIVE and depth were given to geometric problems by using models. Gloria Jenio examines a triangular structure made of wire.

Science Department Adds Bio-chemistry

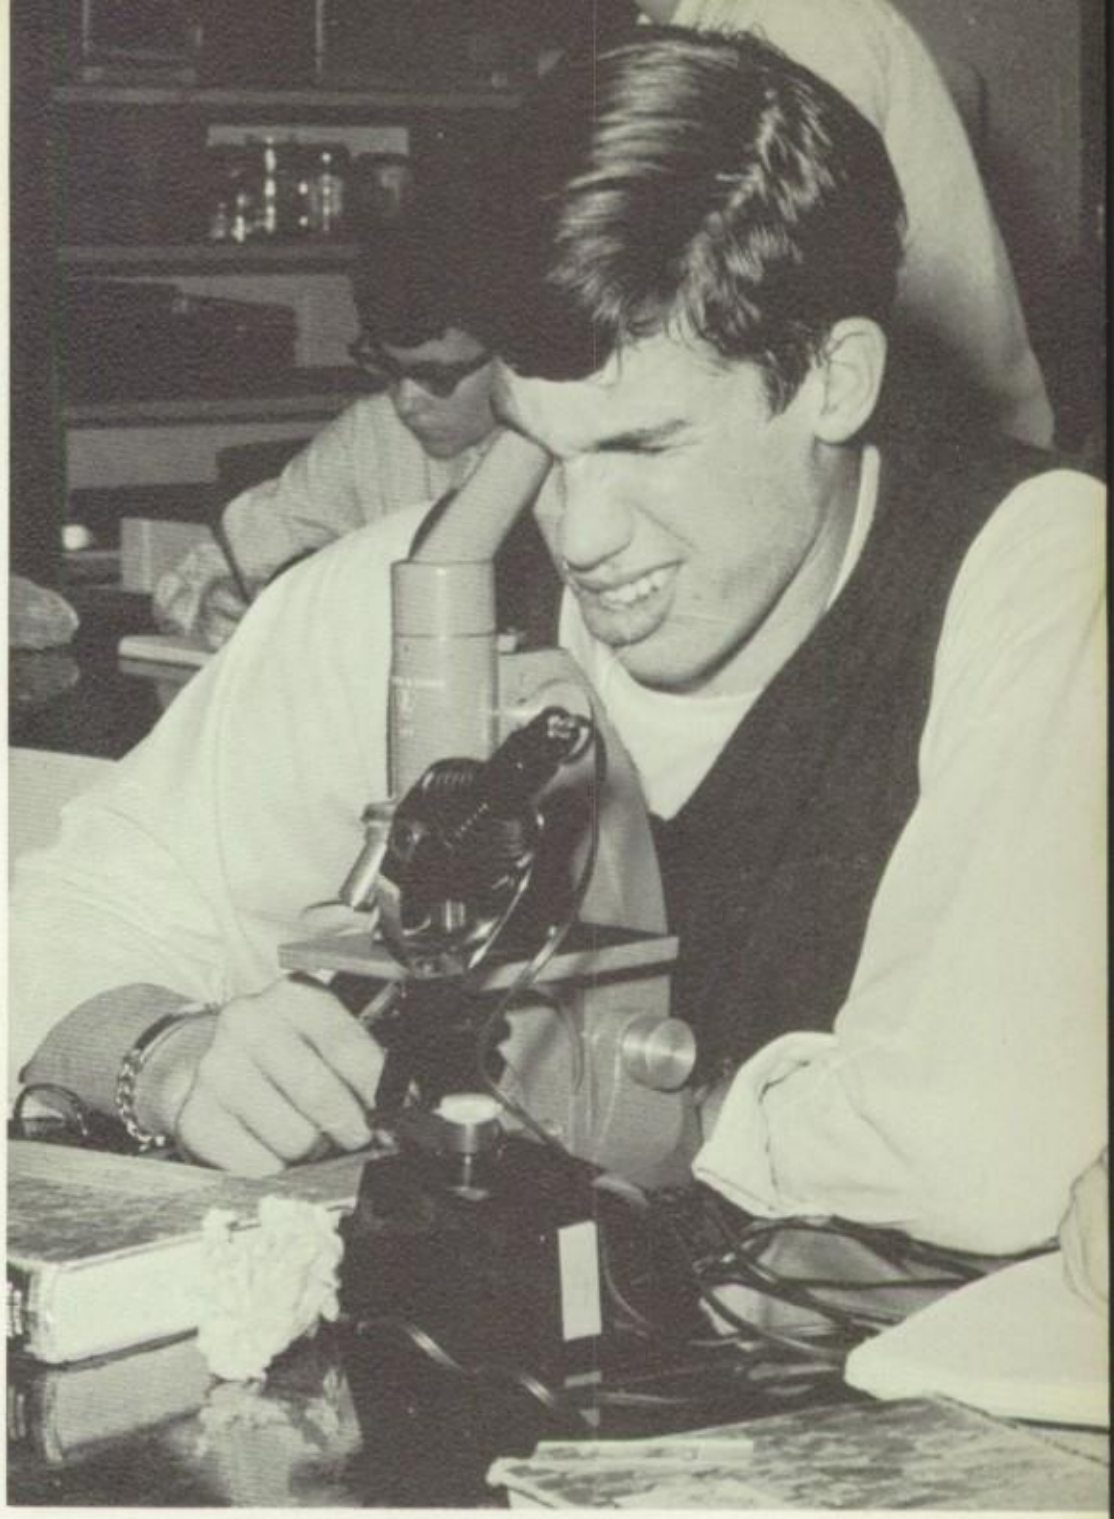
ADVANCED chemistry students chose to study bio-chemistry this year rather than inorganic chemistry as had been done the past two years. Bio-chemistry is a study of chemical compounds and processes taking place within organisms.

First year chemistry students continued to use the "CHEM Study" plan in which they are required to draw their own conclusion after performing experiments, according to directions in their lab manuals.

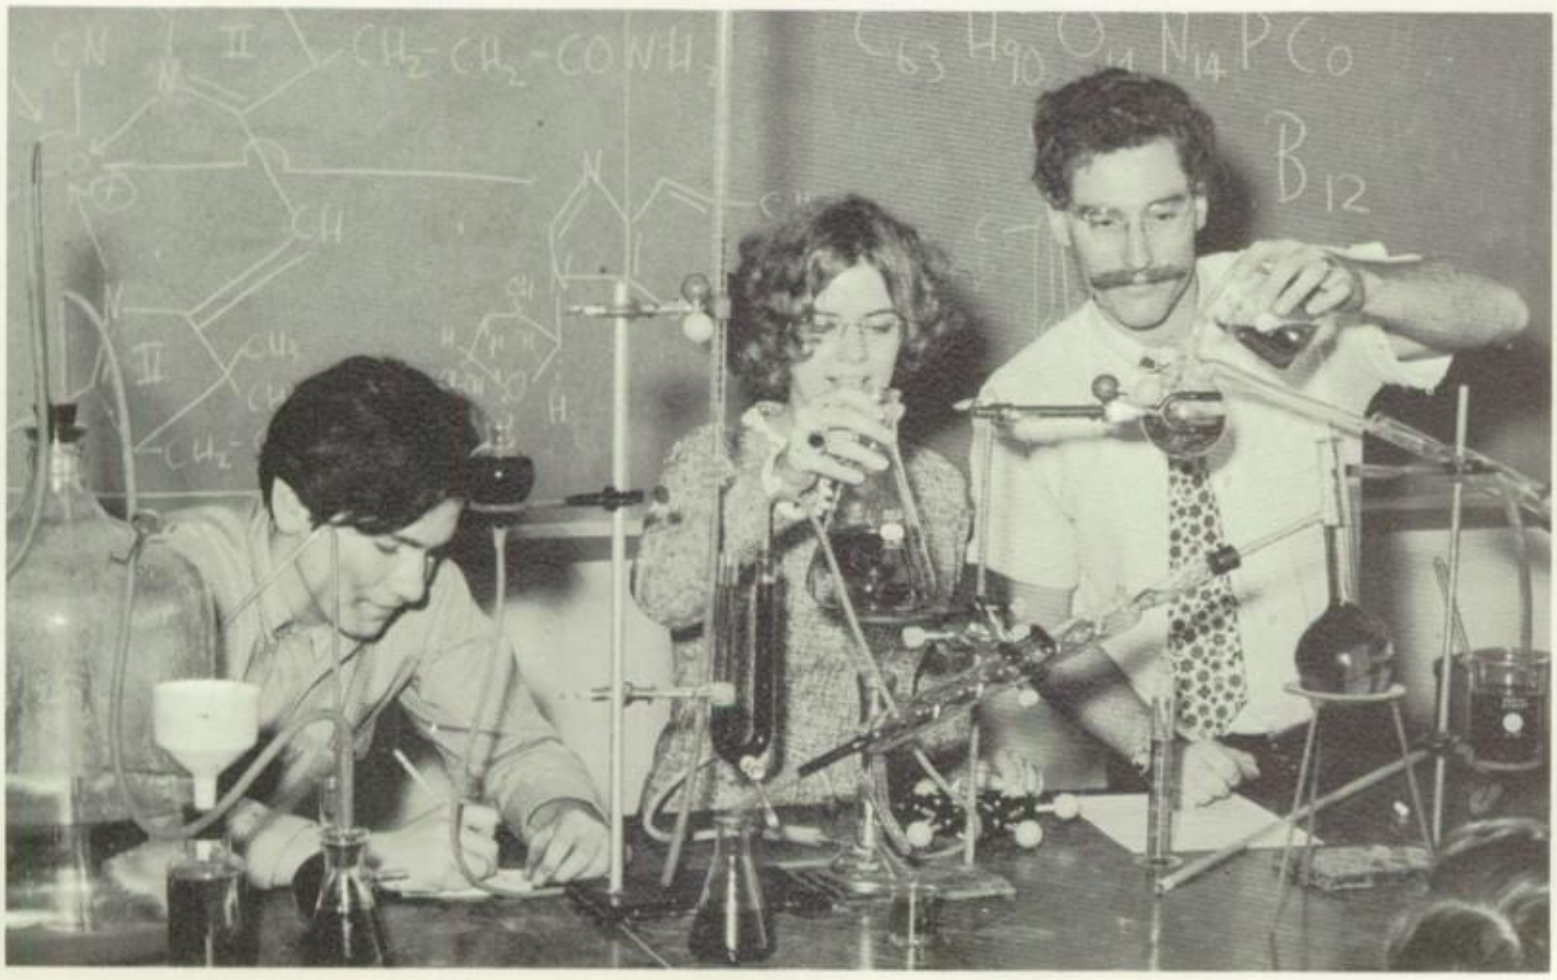
In addition to general biology, lab biology was offered where students studied cell structures and life processes of organisms through dissections and microscopic observations.

Physics classes approached science on a theoretical level involving themselves in the study of the physical properties of matter through experimentation.

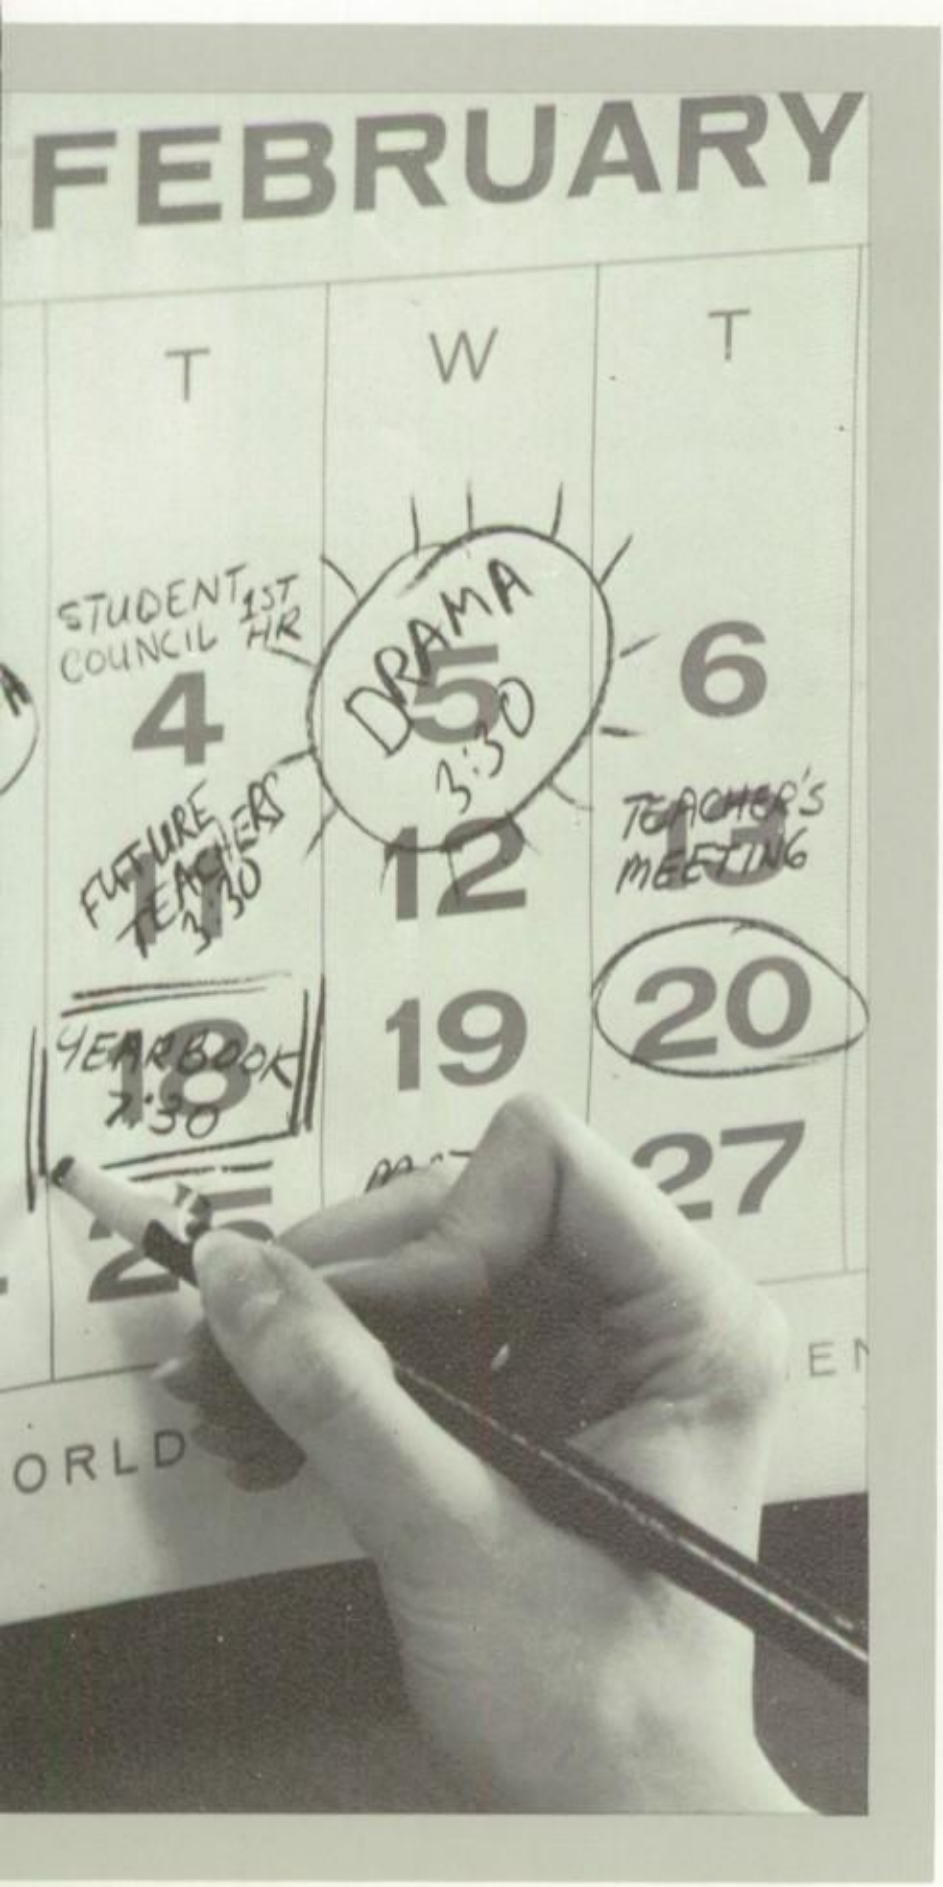
A number of students interested in science were unable to add a science class to their daily course of study because of a cut in staff caused by curtailments due to the failure of recent millage elections.



SPECIAL lighting was used by Dave Vermuelen as he peers into a microscope, exploring living organisms in the biology lab.



ADVANCED chemistry students Tony Scarzo and Cynthia Suchocki check lab apparatus set up by their instructor Mr. Robert Golden.



CLUBS

Taking Time For Involvement

ORGANIZATIONS occupied much of the free time of students as they pursued various special interests. Many of the 20 clubs provided service to the school as well as hours of fun, concentration, and relaxation.

Student Council Shows Leadership

AIMING for better communication between the Student Council and the student body, reports were presented by councilmen in individual classrooms following each meeting this year.

The Council continued the daily student announcements on the public address system to keep students aware of various school activities. An open meeting of the Student Council was also scheduled in the evening to allow interested students to see how the Council works and to air their views.

Meetings with five other schools in the Eastern Michigan league kept representatives up-to-date on new ideas and views. Delegates split up into small groups to discuss specific school problems. Topics ranged from dress regulations and school spirit to Student Council problems such as fund raising projects and conducting meetings.

Proceeds from the Council-sponsored Cinderella Ball were added to a fund for two annual scholarships which were awarded by the Student Council. Other festivities such as the Homecoming bonfire and victory dance were also sponsored by the Council.

Staffs Work In Learning Center

LEARNING CENTER facilities at EDHS were under the co-ordination of two new directors this year. Mrs. Betty Lindberg was appointed new head librarian while Mr. George Saboonjian assumed responsibility for the audio-visual center.

Thirty-four student assistants helped care for the 14,805 books in the library, as well as approximately 150 magazines and periodicals. With 4,000 to 5,000 students using the library each month the staff was busy providing assistance in locating materials as well as shelving and checking out books.

Over 30 students working on the audio-visual staff created new materials for the 24 study carrels by reading and recording stories and poems.

Every day students could choose from 24 scheduled programs or from a tape library of more than 800 television and radio shows or teacher or student recordings.

The staff also worked with transparencies, overhead and opaque projectors, and programmed films, tapes, and records for classroom use.

THREADING a film, audio-visual members Jim Seppey and Greg Mull check a film before sending it to a classroom.

PROGRAMMING tapes on the Dial Access tape console Ken Gazo and Mike Moody assist in the audio-visual center.

Ushers, Office Assistants, Tri-Hi-Y, Key Clubs

Club Members Render Services

HELPING with the heavy work, Key club members Tom Dunn, Bob Peri, and John Grimes carry boxes of canned goods for the food drive.

SERVICE organizations in EDHS, the Office Assistants, the Ushers, Tri-Hi-Y, and Key clubs combined forces to aid the community and fellow students.

The 35 girls who worked in the attendance office learned new methods and procedures with the introduction of the IBM system.

The counseling office had 20 girls who made IBM changes in the master book. Besides the usual filing, telephoning, and alphabetizing the assistants arranged personal appointments for students to see their counselors.

The Ushers club, enlarged to over 50 students, welcomed guests at various concerts, plays, and other school functions.

The Tri-Hi-Y club, with the help of the Key club, held its annual Christmas food drive and collected 942 articles of food. The contributions were divided among 21 families in the community.

Ten Tri-Hi-Y members attended the Youth Legislature in Lansing, where they elected officers and ran the government for the three days they were at the capital.

STACKS of food collected by the Tri-Hi-Y and Key clubs for the annual Christmas canned food drive were brought to the cafeteria for counting and packing. Shown sorting the many articles of food are Jeanne Thelen, Linda Minehart, and Marge Hill.

STUDYING Floyd Convery's move, Tim Zeffer contemplates his strategy during a chess club meeting.

Math, Chess Clubs Stimulate Thinking

HELPING to improve quick thinking and sharp minds the Math and Chess clubs provided students with an opportunity to pursue their special interests.

Chess club members gathered weekly to experiment with new strategy to improve their game. As a member of the Metro-City Chess league, the club was entitled to send players to the spring tournament. To earn the right to enter this contest, members competed in a local club play-off.

During Math club meetings students explored varied fields of mathematics including slide rules and number games. Members used their knowledge of computers to prepare Key-Punch cards which they took to the Macomb County Intermediate School District's computer for programming. They also practiced problem solving in preparation for the Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition test.

Also on the agenda were several field trips which included the Wayne State University Data Processing center and the General Motors Technical center.

WEEKLY Math club meetings provide members with a chance to socialize while playing mathematical games. Sandy Landino, Ruth Reed, and Barb Kuszmaul compete in a game called "Equations."

Clubs Explore Ethnic Problems

PEOPLE were the main interests of the Social Studies and Human Relations clubs. Each of the clubs aimed at a better understanding of their fellow man either close at home or farther away.

Newly formed this year, the Human Relations club investigated the problems of the inner-city slums. Approximately 15 members weekly offered their Saturdays to tutor underpriveleged children aging from 6-14 at the Central Methodist church. An "Everything Drive" was held in order to collect various articles for use in a boarding house which provided refuge for slum area residents while they were seeking permanent homes and jobs. Articles from curtains to old furniture were donated for this purpose. Members also gave their time and effort helping to refurbish the boarding house.

This year the Social Studies club widened its scope of activities to include the functions formerly performed by the United Nations club. Members studied the country of Albania in order to represent that country at the Model United Nations held at the University of Detroit.

At an outing to Cranbrook institute, club members toured the museum and then attended a program at the planitarium.

Other functions of the club included a film presentation about the Netherlands by Frank and Phillip Steller. They were also honored with records and stationary at the Christmas party held by the club.

REDECORATING an inner-city boarding house, Human Relations club members Scott Meyersieck and Doug Stoyka join club sponsor Tom Hughes in brightening one of the many rooms with fresh paint.

RECORD ALBUMS and stationery were presented to exchange students Frank and Flip Steller at the Social Studies club Christmas party. Pat Pompi, club secretary, looks on as the boys open their gifts.

INTERESTED students such as Greg Martin, Dave Kendall, and Kathy Hoff attended weekly Human Relations club meetings, here under the guidance of sponsor Stuart McMillan.

GATHERED at the refreshment table, Future Teachers club member Kathy Hart and sponsor, Mrs. Louise Pietryk, talk with guest, Mrs. Fred Crawford.

Educational Clubs Help Plan Future

VOCATIONAL possibilities were delved into in the Future Teacher and the Future Nurses clubs, while interests in foreign languages were formed in the Language club.

A new idea was introduced in regard to the three languages offered at the school. Instead of separate clubs for each language, one Language club was formed, combining the German; French, and Spanish languages. Members split up into groups according to the languages in order to learn Christmas carols which they sang to residents of the Albany Nursing Home.

Future Nurses club members attended monthly meetings where films and speakers gave them information on the different fields of nursing. The club also tried to have one activity per month. The girls attended open-houses at Deaconess, Mt. Clemens, St. Joseph, and Henry Ford hospitals. At these open houses the girls toured the hospitals and nurses homes and talked to the nurses about their jobs and requirements.

Members of the Future Teachers club attended meetings where they discussed plans for a trip to a college. They also held a tea, where a speaker from Macomb Community college talked about student-teaching.

EARNING money for the Future Teachers club was easy as member Jan Charland sells a Valentine's Day carnation to Bill Keenan.

Clubs Strengthen Vocal Talents

ABILITIES in public speaking and acting were developed by students who participated in the Pit and Balcony Drama club and Debate and Forensics.

The drama club provided interested students with an opportunity to explore many phases of the theater. The club sponsored two plays and members worked behind the scenes on technical work, stage design, construction, and publicity, as well as acting in the performances. Twenty-three members of the drama club earned enough points through their work on the plays to gain membership in the National Thespian society.

Debaters from EDHS brought home trophies, placing second and third, consecutively, in the State "S" league and the Middle Macomb Debate league. In state-wide competition the Debate squad qualified in the district play-offs, winning the right to proceed to the regional tournament. Varsity debaters attended the State Championship debates held at Ann Arbor. Afterwards, they attended the debate awards banquet where the state's top teams received their trophies.

Forensics was an activity new to EDHS this year, utilizing abilities in individual public speaking. Interested students competed in any of seven categories, including declamation, humorous or serious interpretation, original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, multiple reading, or radio-newscasting.

EAST DETROIT was one of the host schools in the "Debate Days" sponsored by Wayne State university. Local debaters, Judy Barich, Rita Ross, and Alan Kadrofske talk to a University of Illinois debater.

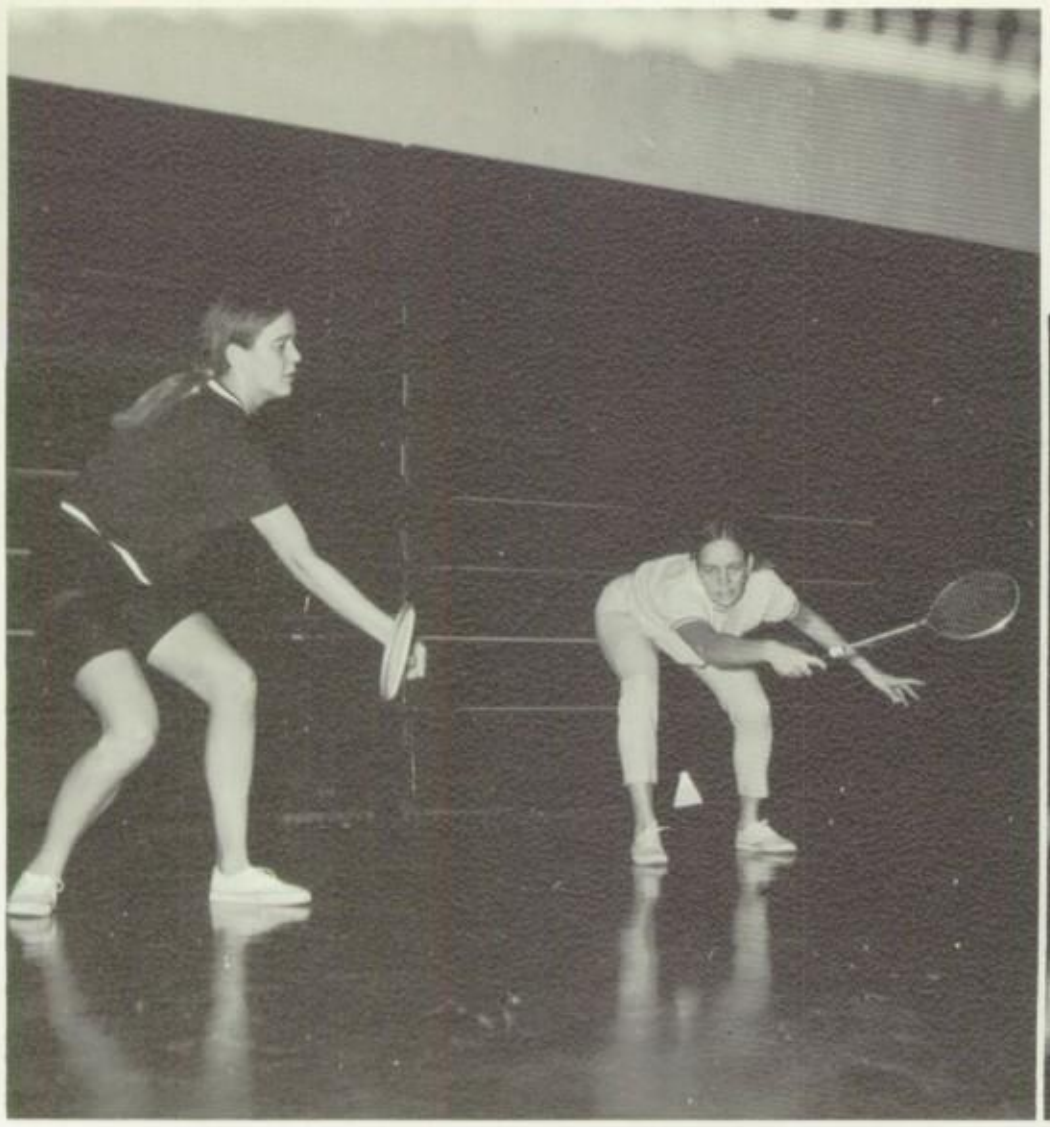
Sports Clubs Show Action, Enthusiasm

SPIRIT and action were the key words of the Ski club, Pep club, and the Girls Athletic association, as members supported and participated in various sporting activities.

Girls who joined the GAA participated in many different sports, including basketball, swimming, volleyball, and track and field events. East Detroit girls played host to an EML Physical Fitness day, and also sent members to compete in other activities and meets at other schools in the league.

Ski club members took advantage of the winter snow and took to the hills on Tuesday evenings, weather and snow conditions permitting. More than 150 students participated in the outings, taking group lessons to learn basic skills and better techniques. Members were then rated by the ski instructors as beginner, intermediate, or advanced skiers, and received ribbons designating their standing. Climaxing the club's activities, 46 members went on a ski-weekend held at Au Sable Ski and Ranch club near Gaylord, Mich.

Approximately 100 students joined the Pep club this year and helped generate enthusiasm for athletic events. The group printed signs and formed organized cheering sections at all the home games.



PARTICIPATING in an EML Physical Fitness day held at East Detroit high, GAA members, Diane and Debbie Oliverio, LEFT, combine forces in a badminton match. BELOW, Lynn Skonieczny works out on the uneven parallel bars.

Yearbook Sweeps National Honors

RECOGNITION came to the 1968 East Detroit yearbook as it received top honors in all three national critical services for the third consecutive year.

The East Detroiter holds "All-American," "Medalist," and "A Plus" honors, the highest awards given.

Using new techniques in photo journalism, the new editors and assistants gained experience in designing pages, planning, and selecting pictures as well as writing stories, headlines, and captions. The 22 members of the staff also pasted up all copy and pictures, the final step before sending the pages to the publisher for printing.

Cheryl Shelson, one of last year's business managers, and Dawn Tingwall, junior editor, were chosen to head a predominantly female staff. Tom Anderson is the lone male editor, aside from the photographers. Four student photographers were kept busy taking candid pictures throughout the year, as well as developing them in the school dark room.

Once again sales records were broken when salesmen took downpayments for more than 1,758 books.

BUSY in the yearbook office, assistant clubs editor, Wendy Lundquist; activities editor, Joyce Clark; assistant academics editor, Judy Fritzsche; faculty editor, Sandi Sparks; and clubs editor, Barb Troesken; work to meet their next deadline.

KEEPING statistics during the football games kept sports editor Tom Anderson hopping along the sidelines.

NATIONAL Honor Society members, Diane Sfair, Irma Leonardi, and Beverly Craig take part in a candle ceremony on stage.

39 New Scholars Join Honor Society

ORGANIZED to honor outstanding scholastic achievement, the National Honor Society again continued to spur students to higher aspirations.

Added to a nucleus of seniors selected last year were students who kept a 3.0 average over five or more semesters. Other characteristics basic for a well rounded person were also considered. Students with the proper grade point average were invited to fill out applications indicating school and civic activities.

Teachers rated the candidates on character, leadership, and service, and a faculty committee then made the final selection based on the student's total contribution to the school and community.

New members are: Elizabeth Baier, Richard Bichel, Evelyn Brooks, Denise Carter, Cheryl Catterall, Robert Cosand, Julie Dalak, Kathleen DiLaura, Nancy Freier, Judy Fritzsche, Arlene Golembiewski, Debra Hemme, Susan Hintze, Werner Imre, Julie Jarkey, Alan Kadrofske, Gail Kwentus, Randie Litsair, Susan Mannino, Karen Milz, Donald Misson, Susan Morrow, Gary Nummer, Mary O'Gara, Mary Olson, Sue Oren, Sandra Pezzin, Michael Pryjmak, Elaine Schober, Jo Scibilia, Cheryl Shelson, Cynthia Suchocki, Carl Sularz, Cathy Tice, Ann Trinkley, Virginia Vivona, Barbara Westveer, Linda Willms, and Dennis Wilson.

Taking Time For Action

BUZZERS, whistles, and stop watches all signaled the time for action at EDHS. Although curtailed in numbers, the 1968-69 athletic events provided many exciting hours for contestants and spectators alike.

ELUDING A WOULD-BE TACKLER, LARRY BETTENCOURT, THIS YEAR'S MOST VALUABLE PLAYER, LOOKS FOR RUNNING ROOM.

Shamrocks Win 2nd Place In EML

TEAMWORK was the key to a successful season of five victories and four losses, compiled by East Detroit's 1968 varsity football team.

An example of this teamwork is the fact that top scoring honors were evenly divided among three players, Rick Geister, Don MacGillivray, and Craig Linenger, each with 36 points.

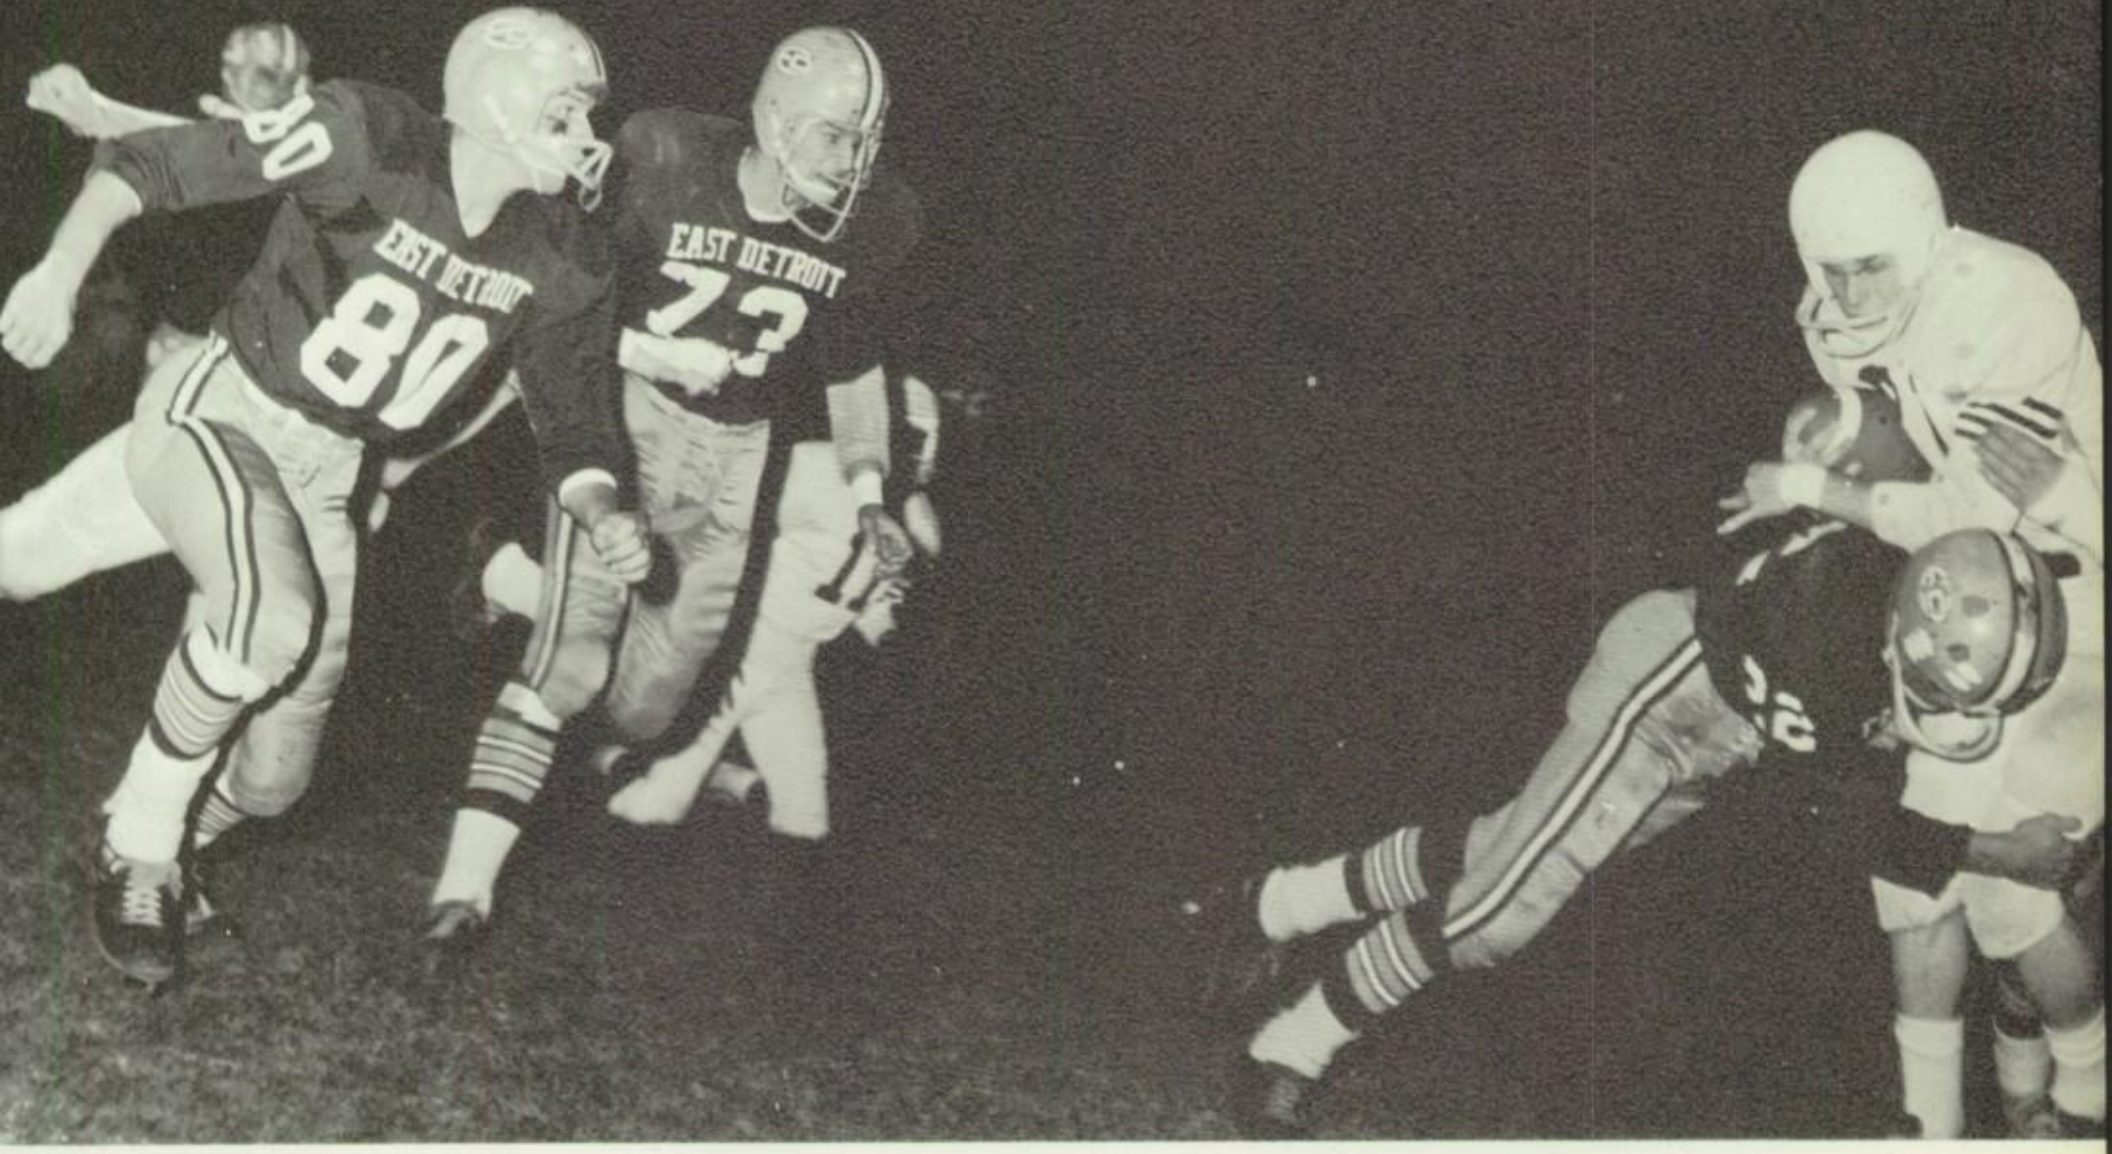
While not scoring often, Larry Bettencourt became the work horse for the team, running for 556 yards to lead the squad in the yards gained category. Coaches rewarded his efforts by selecting him as the Most Valuable Player for 1968.

The Shamrocks got off to a slow start losing three of their first four games. Then Coach Ron Ruzzin and his associates found the right combination and the Irish won their next three games in a row.

East Detroit's 4 to 1 record in Eastern Michigan league play earned them second spot this year. The only EML loss by the Irish was in the league opener at Mt. Clemens. The Bathers went on to capture the league crown.

One of the highlights of the season was the 30 to 26 upset win over previously undefeated Port Huron Northern on Homecoming night. This gave the Shams their fifth consecutive homecoming victory. The scoring clincher for the night was an 83 yard "bomb" from junior quarterback MacGillivray to fellow junior, end, Geister.

Several EDHS players were honored by selection on honorary teams. Mike Ybarra, senior tackle, was top award winner by being selected on the Detroit News East area all-star team and the Macomb Daily Class A team. He was also named to the offensive and defensive Eastern Michigan league teams and was joined by teammates Ed Burley, Eric Geister, and Don MacGillivray who earned spots on the EML offensive team.



DEFENSIVE players rarely make the headlines but nevertheless they play a vital role in every game. Showing off East Detroit's defensive power, Craig Linenger grabs a Ferndale hopeful, as teammates Ed Burley and Kerry Baker rush up to secure the tackle.

QUARTERBACK Don MacGillivary not only supplied East Detroit with 288 yards gained rushing, he also provided this year's varsity with an effective air attack. RIGHT, Don begins his record-setting 99-1/2 yard quarterback sneak for a touchdown against Brablec. BELOW, he tosses for some of his 76 yards which he tallied in the Utica Stevenson contest.

CATCHING a point after touchdown pass, Ken Gennette provides the deciding factor in the 7 to 6 win over Highland Park.

Reserve Gridmen Earn .500 Season

BETTER defense gave this year's Junior Varsity football squad a record of four wins and four losses, a slight improvement over last year.

Although lacking a strong offense, the Shamrock reserves tallied 65 points with six players involved in the scoring. Chris Meyer and Paul Azorovitz each crossed the goal line three times for top scoring honors followed closely by Ken Gennette.

East Detroit's EML record last year of two victories, one loss, and a tie was good enough to give them the league championship. This year's record of three wins and two losses could earn them no more than third place behind Mt. Clemens, the winner, and Port Huron Northern and Utica Stevenson who tied for second.

Young Squad Has Good Year

Shams Win Second Spot In EML

DESPITE the fact that the varsity basketball squad contained only four seniors, the 1969 Shamrocks nevertheless fashioned a winning season with nine victories and seven losses.

In Eastern Michigan league play their record looked a little more impressive as they battled to undisputed possession of second place. With the addition of another EML opponent, Utica Stevenson, this year's cagers found the competition tough. They did manage to beat the new team twice, although it took an overtime period to do it in their first meeting. The Irish also downed both Port Huron teams twice, were upset by Roseville once and dropped both of the Mt. Clemens encounters.

In addition to the 75 to 74 squeaker at Stevenson, the Shams had an exciting night at Mt. Clemens when they fought back from a 16-point deficit at half-time to come within two baskets of upsetting the EML champions. The Bathers went on to win the local Regional Championship title against Kettering.

Although the 1969 Shamrock field goal and free throw percentages decreased from last year's total, they did increase in the game point averages from 64.7 to 71.3. One explanation could be the slight increase in rebounding. This year's team hauled down 724 rebounds compared to 715 last year. Rick Geister took rebound honors with 175.

East Detroit was not without its heroes. Joel Maljak, 5-foot, 10-inch guard was top scorer for the Shamrocks as well as the top point-getter in the EML. Joel was honored with a place on the EML 1st Team. Steve Tessman, the second highest scorer for the Irish this year found a spot on the second team and Geister was listed on the Honorable Mention squad.

Maljak also won the 1969 free throw crown with an average of 77.8. During the year he tossed in 95 of 122 attempts from the charity line.

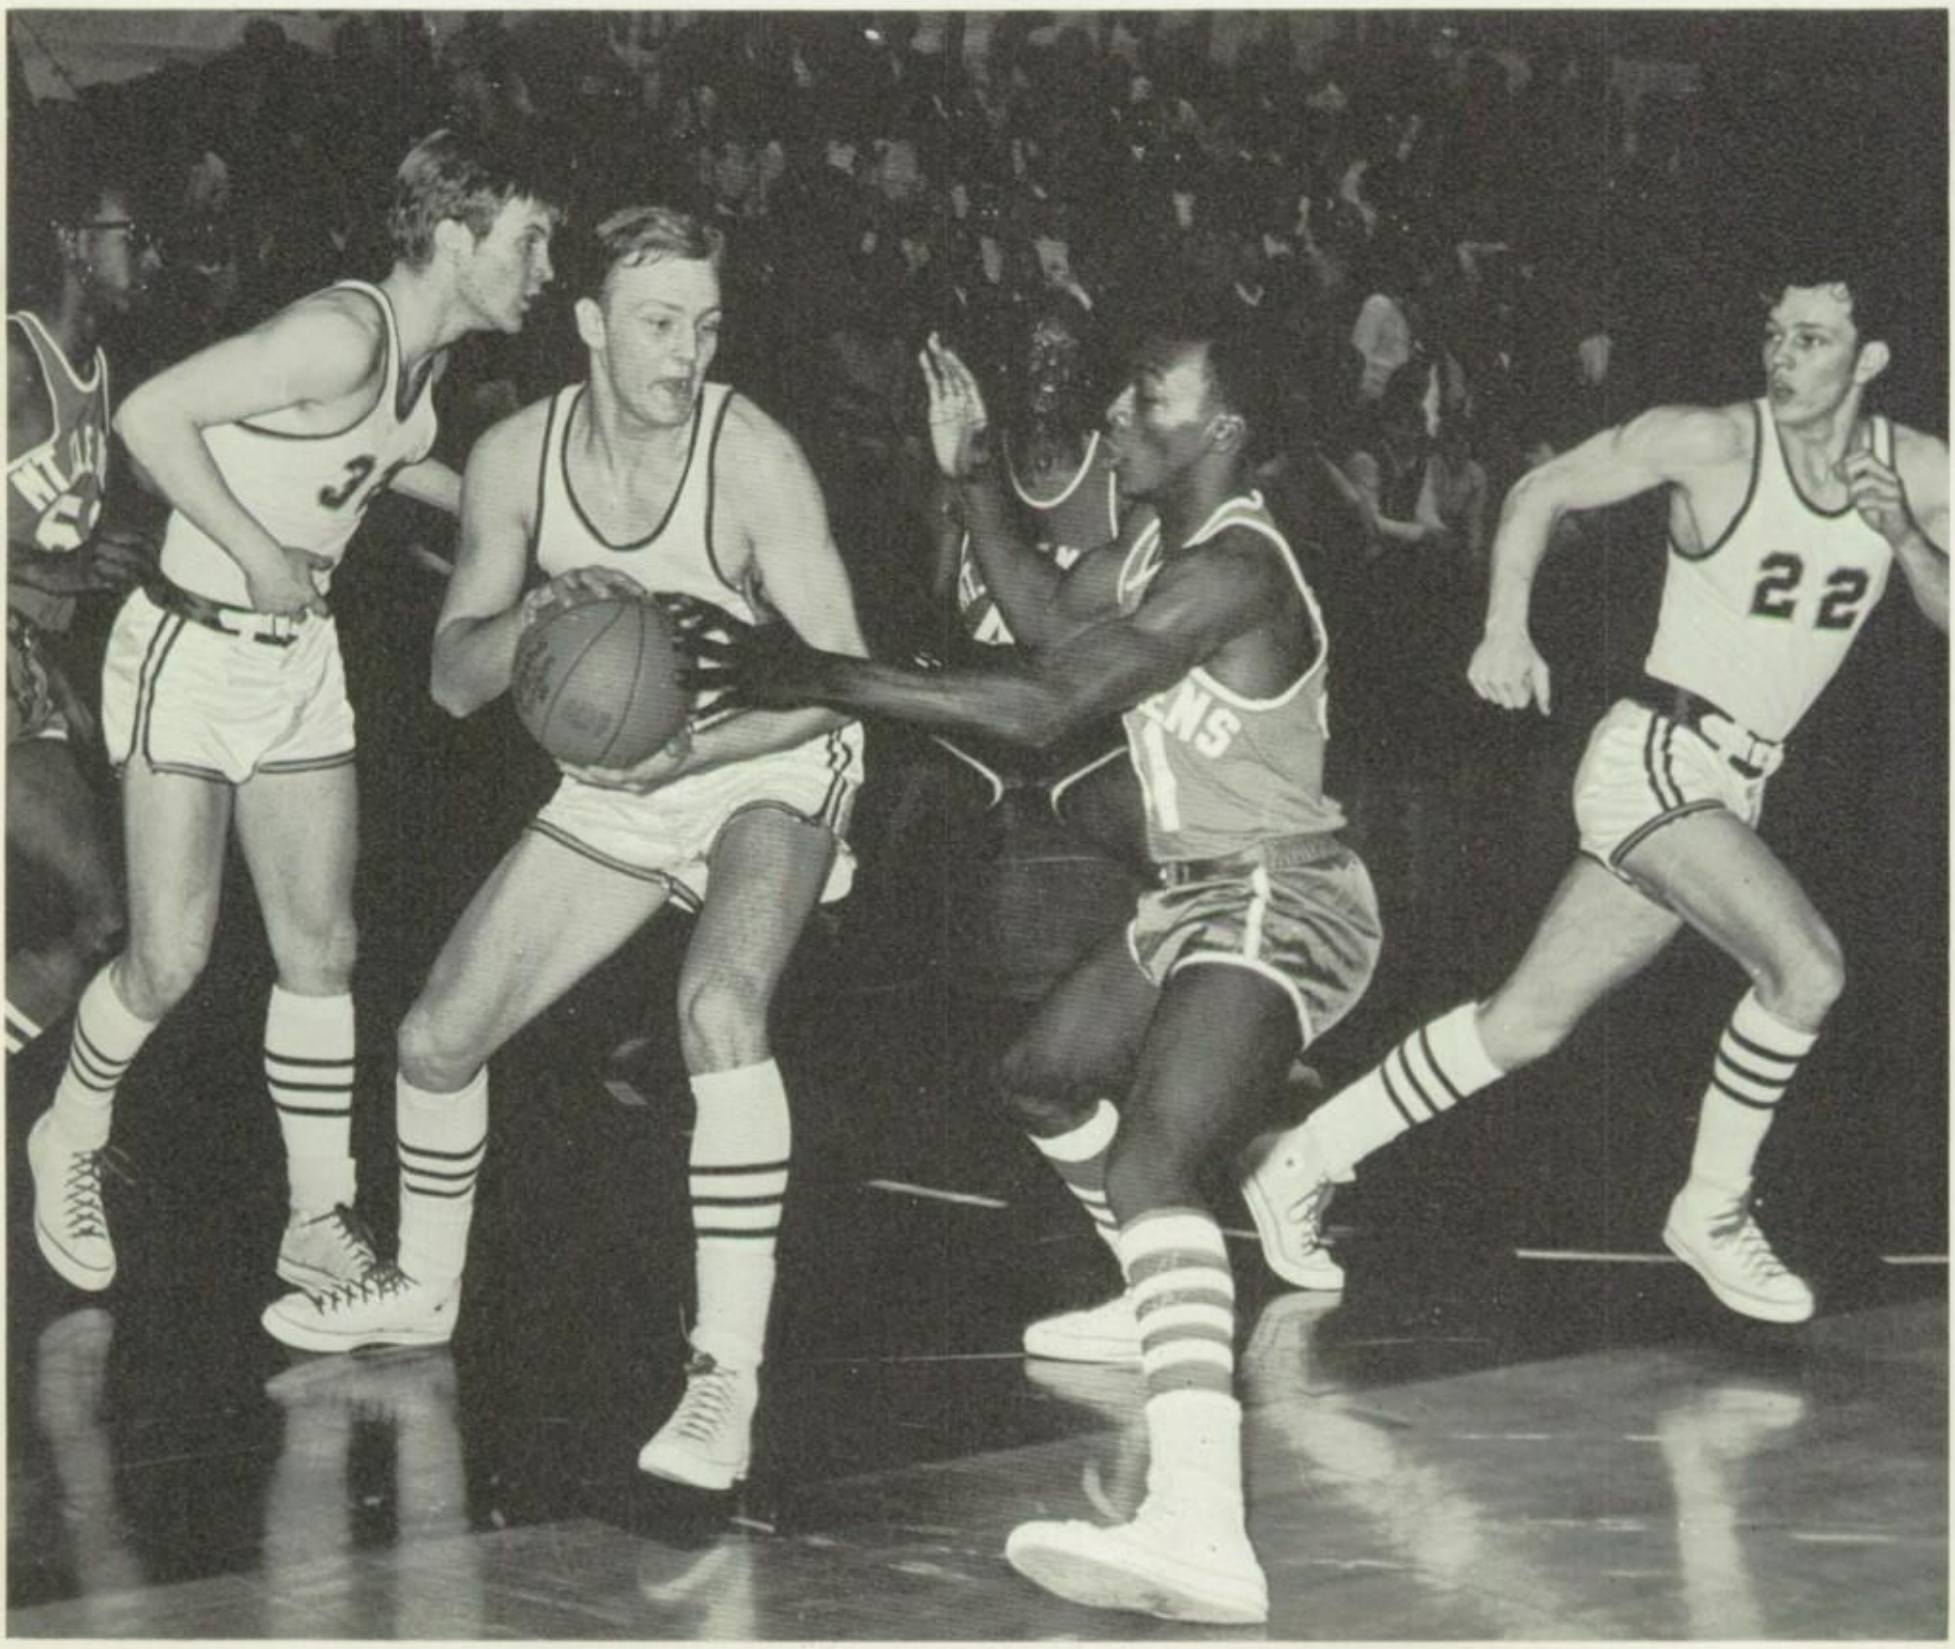
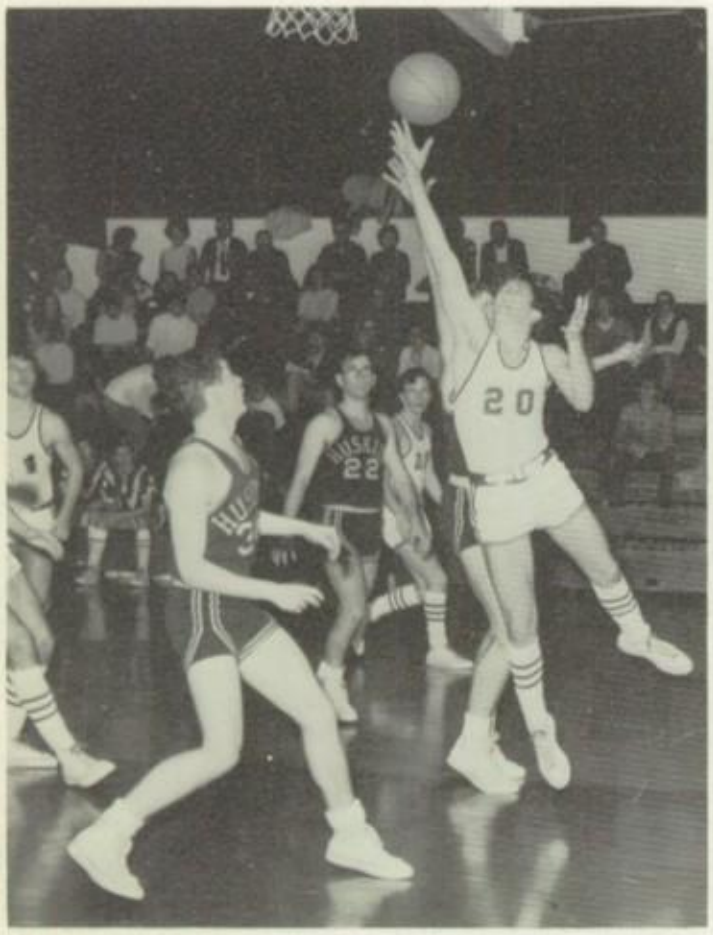
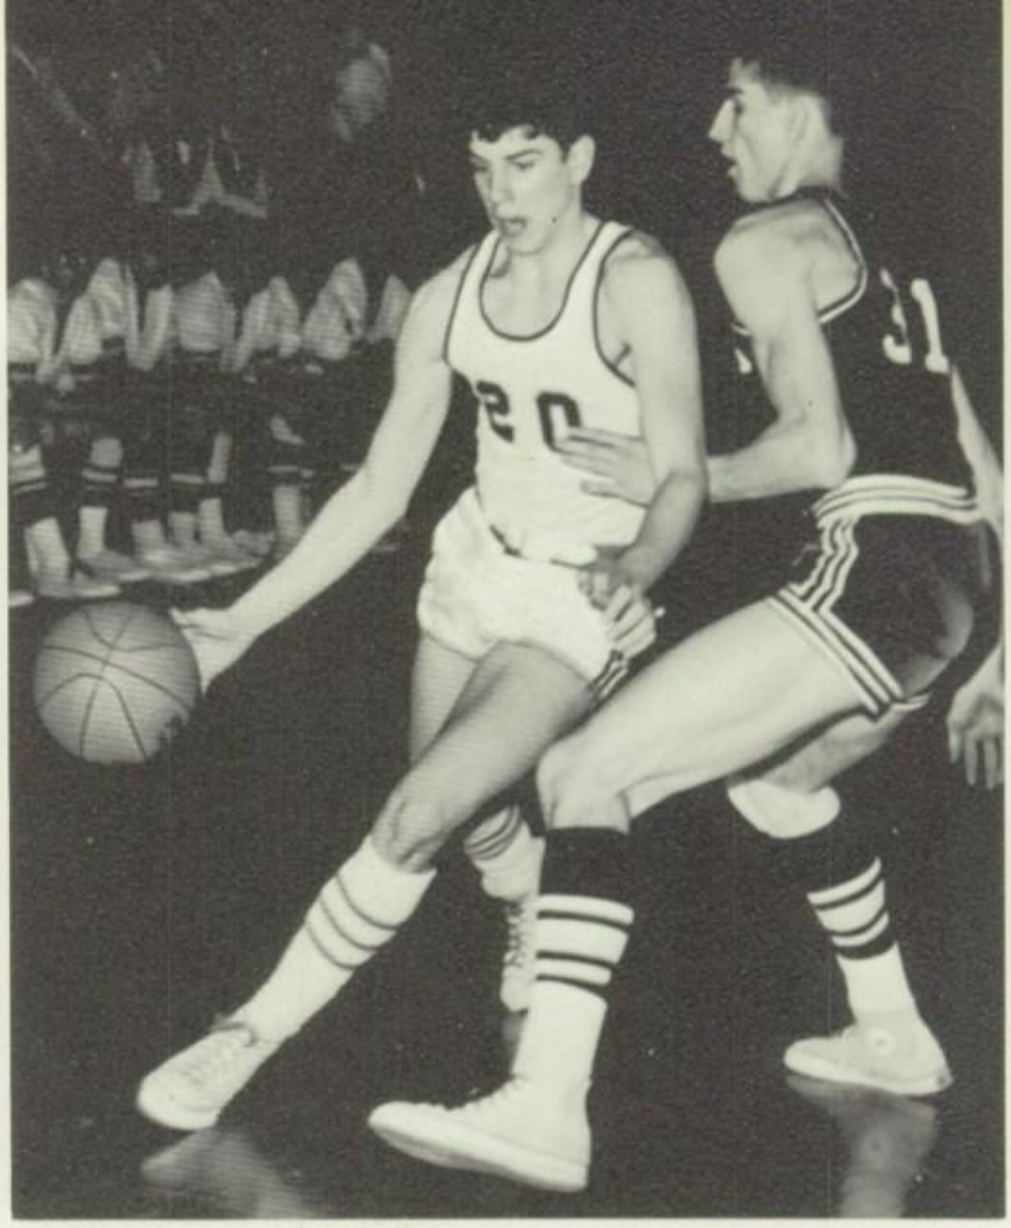
SPRINTING down court, Don MacGillivray looks for a pass from Eric Geister who has snagged another rebound. Steve Tessman, another top rebounder, is ready to join the play.



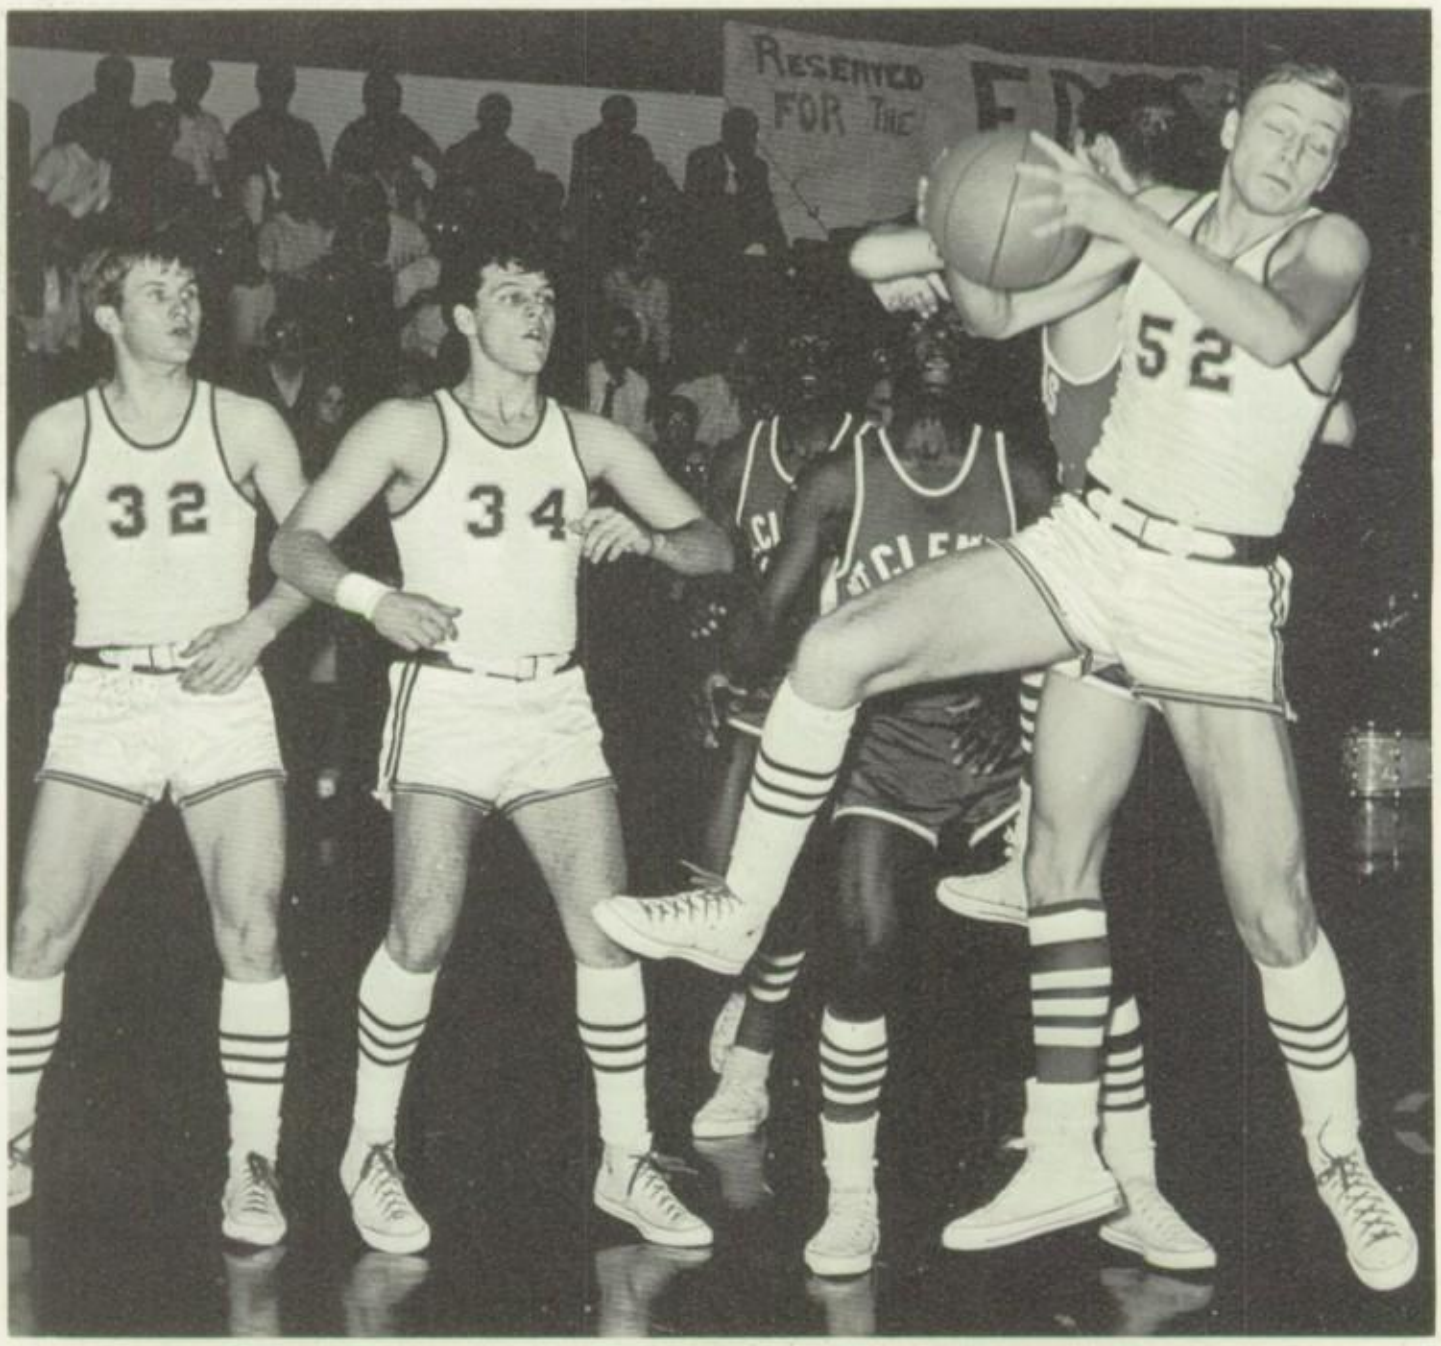
EYEING the basket, Don MacGillivray leaps high and prepares to hook the ball past his opponent.

LEADING the Eastern Michigan league in scoring, Joel Maljak drives around a Roseville guard on his way to another basket. BELOW, Joel displays the aggressiveness needed to become a top point-getter.





WRESTLING the ball away from a Mt. Clemens player, Rick Geister has Steve Tessman and Dave Srot standing by ready to give him help.



Young Cage Squad Has Winning Year

OPEN-ARMED Steve Tessman, above, leaps for another rebound during the Shamrock invasion of Port Huron Northern territory. LEFT, Rick Geister drives the baseline and reaches up for an easy two points in the Irish win over Roseville.

Reserves Capture 4th League Title

WINNING their fourth EML championship in a row, East Detroit's JV cagers compiled a 9-1 record in league play and an overall total of 14 victories and 2 losses. Tossing in a record 319 points, Don Hall also set record in foul shooting percentage and topped the team in rebounds. Paul Meier was second in the scoring race with 265 points.

DRIVING toward the basket, Paul Meier, one of the team's leading scorers, taillied 22 points in the Port Huron Northern game.

Young Trackmen Optimistic About Year

Cindermen Face Rebuilding Period

AFTER an absence of one year, track was re-established as a varsity sport at East Detroit high. Money problems cancelled all spring sports last year.

In 1967, Shamrock cindermen captured third place in the EML with a record of two wins and two losses. Coaches Dennis Wheeler and Wayne Brown were hopeful that despite the layoff, this year's track squad would be in the heat of the league race.

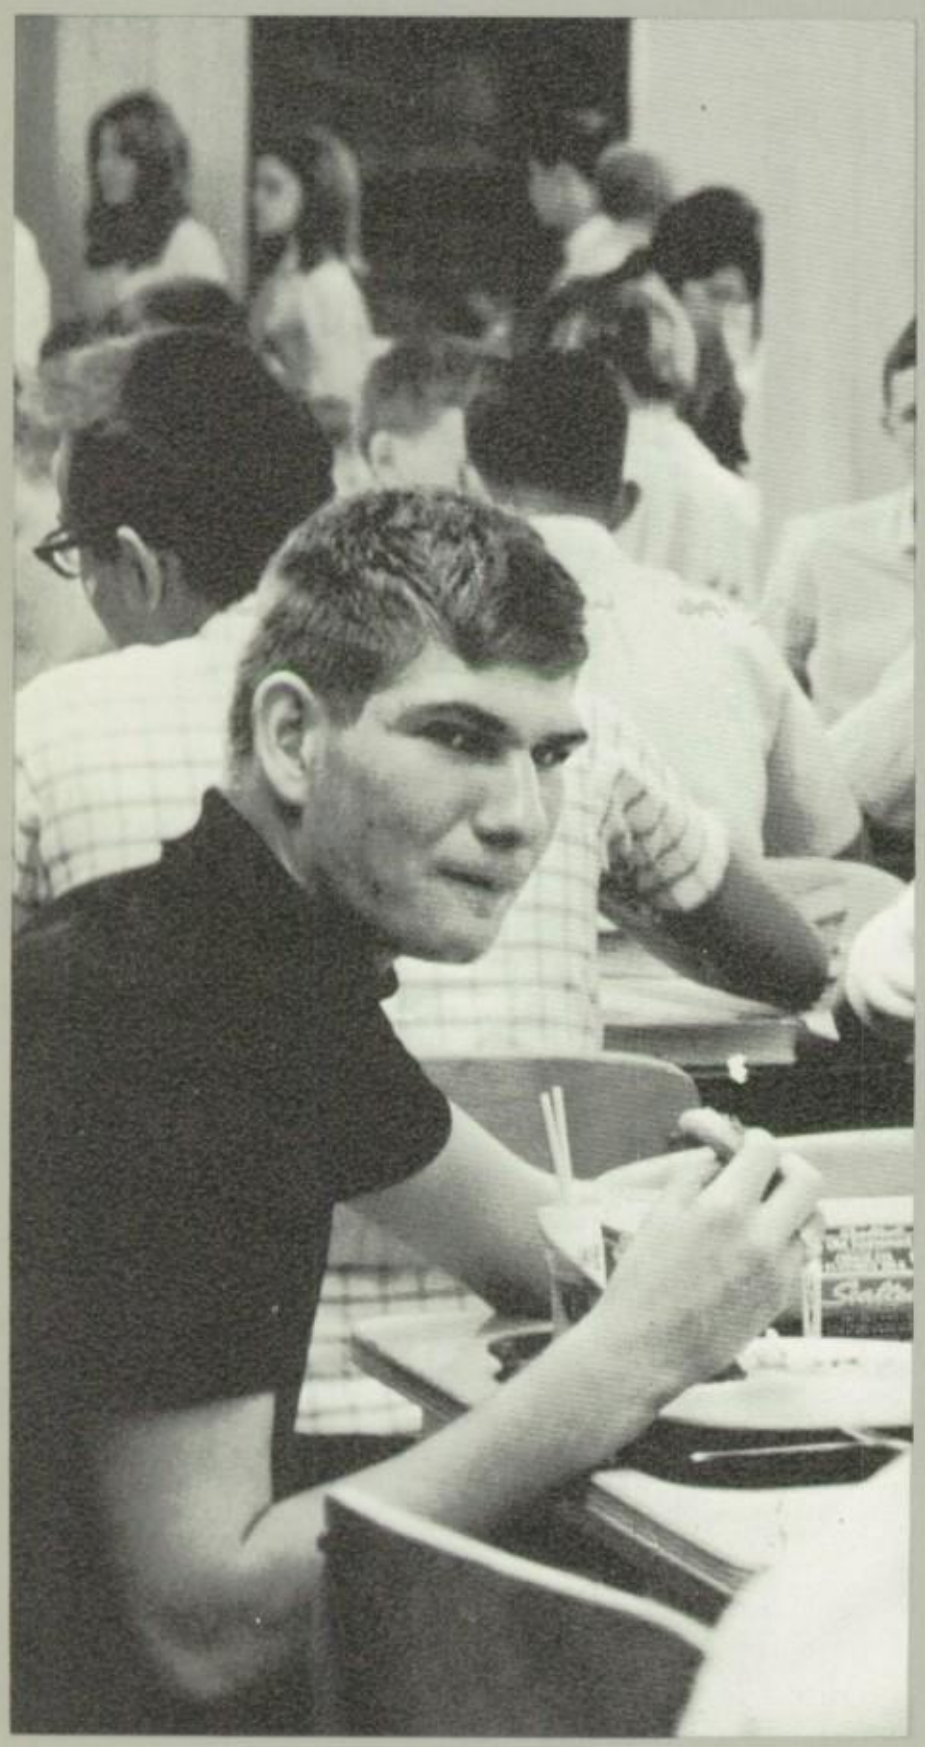
Replacing former state champion, Guilio Catallo in the shot put, Ross Kent was expected to capture points for the Irish. Other 1969 hopefuls were Kerry Baker in the 440 run, dashes, and long jump while Werner Imre was looked upon to control the high jump and hurdle events.

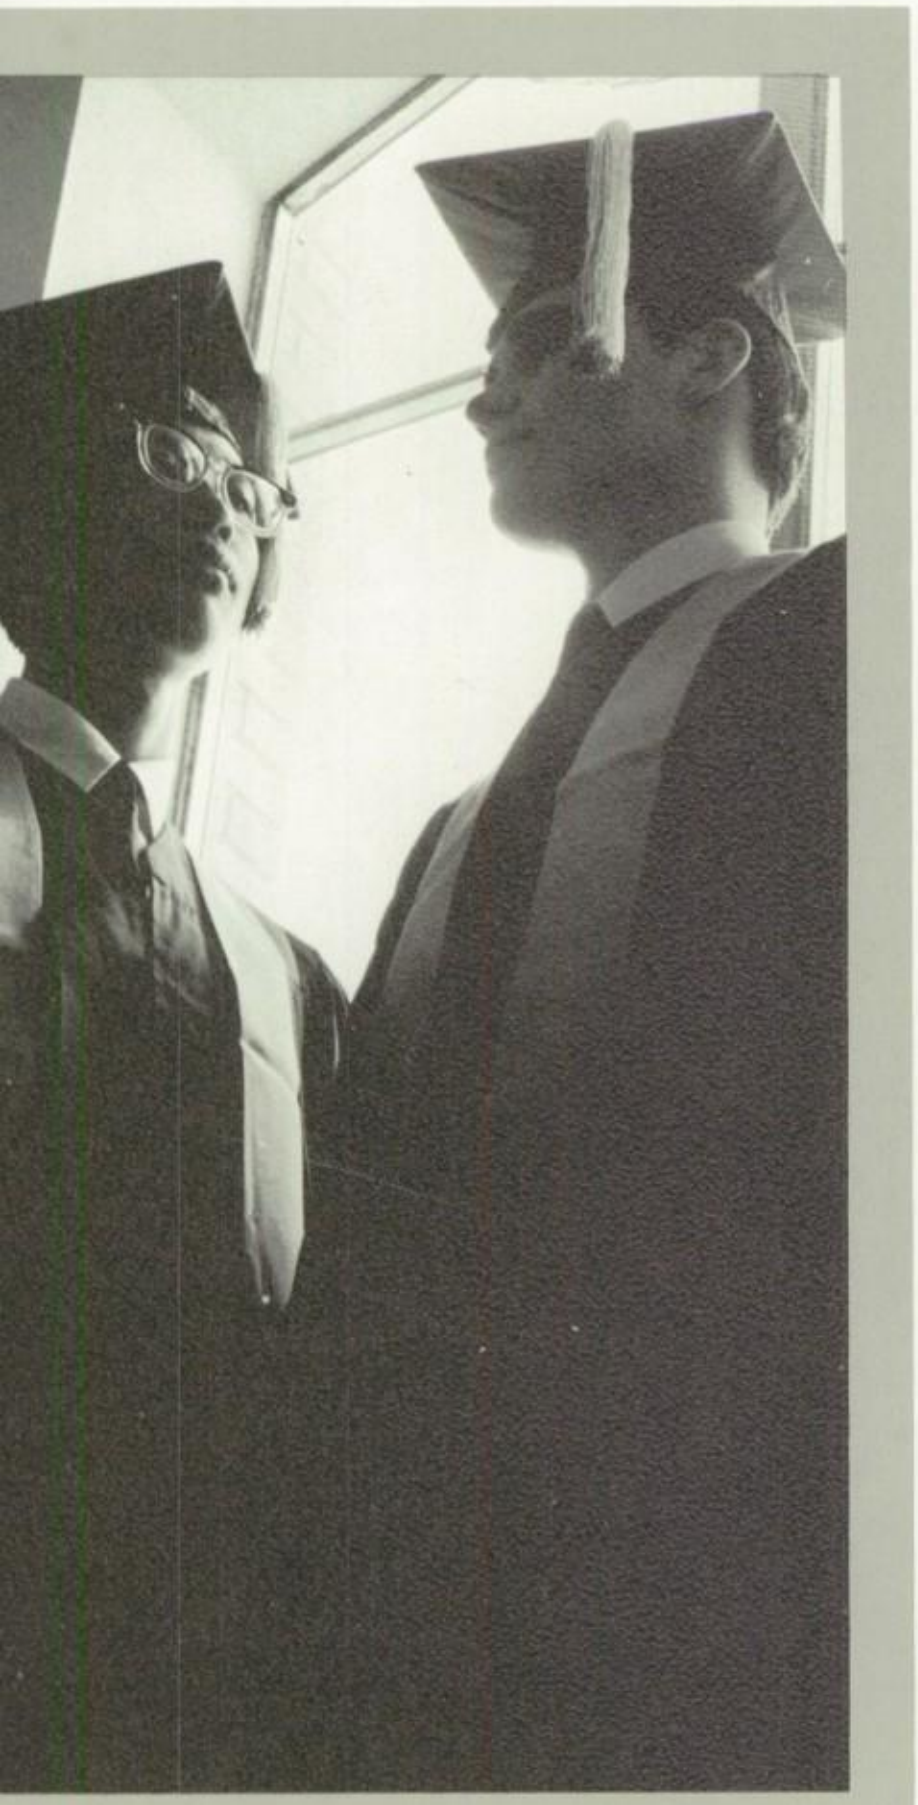
Even though this year's team contained only 10 seniors, the squad was optimistic about continuing their winning record after the opening victory.

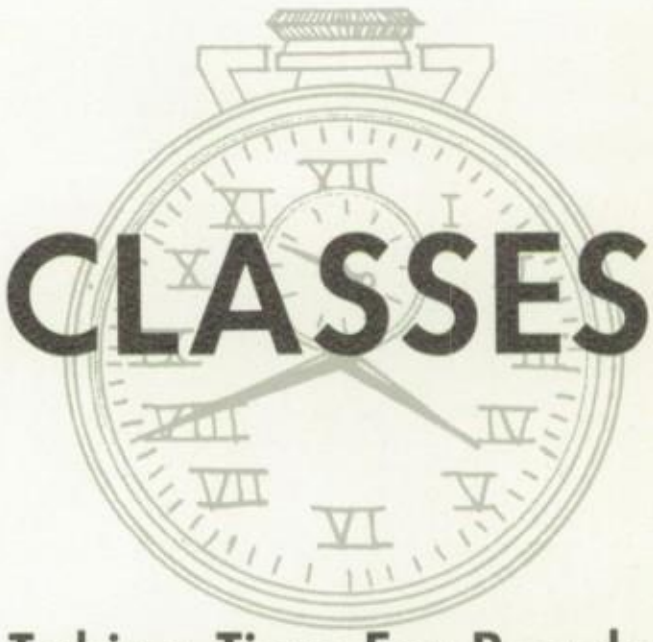
LEAPING over a high hurdle, Werner Imre, left, sprints to first place against Warren Woods. Bob Peri, right earned third place in a close race.

COMING from behind in the mile run, Butch Newbour adds first place points to the Shamrock total. Exhausted after the run, Butch collapses into the arms of teammates Mike Allard and Daryl Bertram while Jim Bommarito, Mark Coppola, and Ron Riley stand ready to assist.

ONE of the Shamrock's star hopefuls for the '69 track season, Werner Imre leaps 5 feet, 10 inches to capture first place in the high jump. In the opening meet of the season he went on to win both the high and low hurdle events.







CLASSES

Taking Time For People

FROM early morn until late at night, 2,700 spirited students kept the high school building alive with their interest, curiosity, and creativity. Each individual can best determine how successful he or she has been in utilizing these precious years.

SENIORS

WITH the clock on the wall ticking away the minutes of their senior year, officers met regularly in the senior office to prepare for the many events associated with graduation. The 1969 class officers are: Tom Thompson, president; Elena Evona, secretary; Bob Fracassa, vice president; and John McCullough, treasurer.

Girls Capture Scholastic Honors

COMPILING a perfect scholastic average of 4.0, Marilyn Kedzierski has followed in the footsteps of her sister by being named Valedictorian of the Class of 1969. Barbara Troesken's enviable 3.75 average has earned her the title of Salutatorian.

Marilyn's perfect all "A" record is the first one recorded at East Detroit high since 1956 when Patricia Phelps accomplished the same feat.

An Honor Graduate must earn at least a 3.0 average in all 5-credit classes during four years of high school work. This year 63 members of a class of more than 850 will be honored with this title and be privileged to wear the traditional gold tassels and stoles during the graduation week activities.

Both Marilyn and Barbara are members of the National Honor society. Marilyn also participated in the Science and Math clubs while Barbara served as Clubs editor of the yearbook, and was active in the Ski, Pep, Future Teachers, and Social Studies clubs.

Marilyn, Barbara, and Nancy Freier were singled out for additional honors by the Detroit Association of The Phi Beta Kappa National Honor society. A member of this organization must have compiled a 3.6 average in academic subjects during high school.

FACULTY

Taking Time For Instruction

TEACHERS and administrators spent many hours working on accreditation evaluation forms, campaigning for the millage proposals in addition to the expected hours spent preparing and presenting classroom materials. Several teachers also gave freely of their time to advise clubs and sponsor special events which helped make many more memorable moments in East Detroit high school.

Future Brightens With Millage Victory

MEMBERS of the East Detroit Board of Education and community leaders began to smile again with the passage of the successful millage campaign this year. Three previous millage requests had been turned down.

The successful campaign was the result of the concerted efforts of the Board of Education, administration, educational staff and parents.

Twelve committees were established, one in each of the 12 elementary school districts. Secondary and elementary school principals and department chairmen worked directly with the parents of the children enrolled in the East Detroit schools.

The passage of the millage enabled administrative leaders to begin to fulfill a four-point commitment made to the voters. The first pledge was to pay off the accumulated debt within the next two years. Elementary schools are scheduled to return to full day schedules in the fall. Junior high school students will be offered five classes instead of the four allowed this year, and a restoration phasing of the high school program of studies that was in effect in 1967, before curtailments, will be re-established.

This year's high school enrollment was the largest yet, with 2,739 registered students. A total of 3,130 students attended East Detroit's three junior high schools.

With the passage of the millage proposal, educators and the entire community have renewed hope for the educational future of East Detroit's young people.

HEADING the successful millage campaign, Miss Ruth Turunen, curriculum coordinator, and Robert Kohloff, assistant superintendent, organize materials at the Administration building.

COMPOSING the 1968-69 East Detroit Board of Education are: Roger Dingman, trustee; Harold Cominsky, vice president; Charles Stobaugh, treasurer; William Ashton, president; Rosemary Pemberton, secretary; John Barker, trustee; and Jane Mahin, trustee.

Outlook Good For Reinstated Program

COMPLETING his second year as principal of East Detroit high, John W. Sanders was pleased by the prospects he faces for the 1969-70 school year.

Part of the program that was curtailed because of inadequate funds last year is being re-instated due to the passage of the millage proposal. Band, choir, art, and drama, which were greatly affected by the cut-backs in 1967, will be returned to their former status.

The athletic program will be completely renewed with varsity swimming added as a new sport at EDHS.

Due to the fact that the junior high schools offered only four classes to each student, the incoming sophomores will be permitted to take six classes to prevent a possible shortage of credits in their senior year. Upperclassmen will be allowed a sixth class only if it is a part of the fine arts curriculum.

An experimental or "pilot study" program is tentatively planned for the social studies department and will go into effect in September, 1969. The selected classes will not require the use of textbooks but will rely on supplementary teaching materials.

This year, many months of preparation and in-depth self evaluation on the part of the faculty were climaxed by the arrival of the North Central Accreditation committee in February. The committee's purpose was to analyze and evaluate every aspect of the school.

Principal Sanders stated that the results of the visitation were most satisfactory and he commended the teachers for their conscientious efforts.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

YEARBOOK staff members would like to thank teachers and students who assisted in preparing and selling the 1969 East Detroiter. Special thanks go to the staff and photographers from Powell Studios, especially Ron Schultz, who so satisfactorily supplied our photographic needs. Thanks also go to the Macomb Daily for the use of several pictures and to Mr. Don Lundquist for the sketch of the clock used on the division pages.

Time it was and what a time it was.

It was a time of innocence,

a time of confidences.

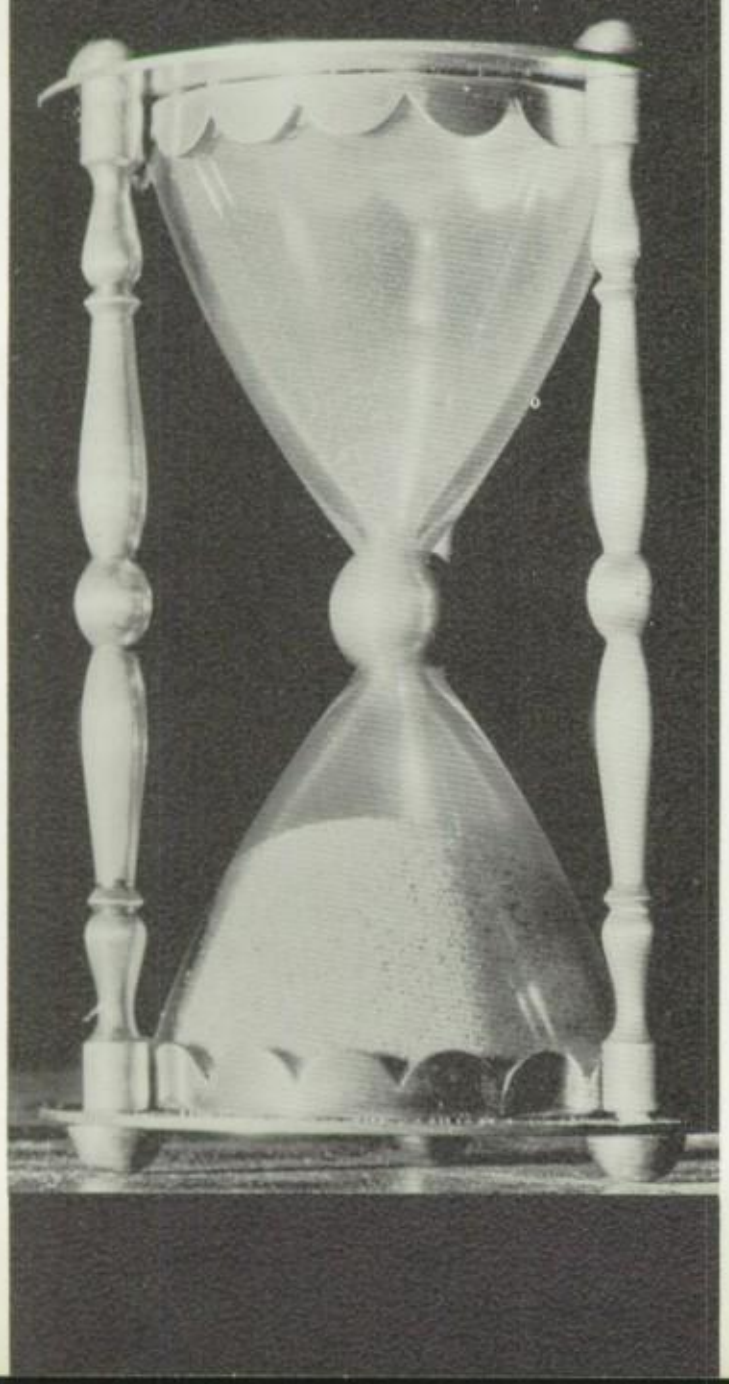
Long ago it must be,

I have a photograph.

Preserve your memories,

they're all that's left you.

Paul Simon



Keith,
To a real nice guy with a fantastic brain. (Next year I hope you learn how to use it.)
Harvey

Keith,
Glad I met you this year
Lots of Luck
Mark

Keith,
to one of the nicest guys I know. Stay as nice as you are. Hope to see you next year.
RMA Florida

Keith,
to a real nice guy I'm glad to have met you. Glad you made the Dean's List. Have a nice summer
Good Fuck!
Gloria

Keith,
A real nice guy who's good to talk to. A pure sweet. Stay the way you are.
71
RMA

Keith, The nicest thing about you is your smile.
Good luck
Love
KEA

Keith,

It's a real nice guy who like enjoyed (?!) having in my math classes. Have fun next year. Good Luck Always.

Denise 71"

Keith,

I'm really enjoyed Mrs. Glover and Mrs. Schoolcraft's class on "Du Jour" etc. "3001", and "Du Jour" was my most favorite. I'm glad I was a member of your class '71.

Sincerely,

AL. McAINSH & SON
